FLURRY IN OATS IN CHICAGO PIT

Reports of Severe Damage Give Rise to Bull Market.

CHICAGO, May 12.—The speculative form centre in grain today moved to be oats trade. A decided flurry resulted om serious reports that the oats crop the best parts of Indiana and Illinois a received an unthrifty start. Desite some reaction oats closed at 3c to the net advance. Wheat fluished 16c net advance. Wheat finished %c off to %c up, corn varied from Wheat Also Strong.

Wheat advanced with oats and because of a bullish outlook regarding the visible supply. The decrease in the latter, however, was somewhat disappointing as compared with last year. Besides, today's arrivals at the principal terminals were on almost an after-harvest basis. Pressure also resulted from a bearish crop estimates in Oklahoma and elsewhere so there was an easy feeling at th close.

Because of the uncertainty regarding oats farmers were said to be withholding reserves of corn. A consequent advance in corn checked eastern demand and subsequently brought about a material setback from top figures.

Notwithstanding larger receipts of hogs, provisions averaged higher. The market was chiefly affected by the strength of grain.

ADVICE HOLDS GOOD Following up our opinion of Saturday, we still believe that PEARL LAKE, GIFFORD, TEMISKAMING and GREAT NORTHERN are the best purchases in the mining market at present. We also feel kindly to PETERSON LAKE, but the upward movement in this issue may be slow. The outlook for mining securities has brightened materially the past few days. All orders and enquiries receive our personal attention. H. B. SMITH & CO.,

BANKERS BELIEVE

So Says Financial Critic-No Set Rules For Speculation.

BOSTON, May 10.—Adams, in Boston News Bureau, says:

"There are no rules for speculation. One of the lowest price levels in the history of the stock exchange existed with money 1 per cent. and the surplus of New York banks around $80,000,000. One of the highest obtained —much more recently—with call funds at 125 per cent. These facts stand out from among the many going to show that neither rules nor precedent afford a sure guide to market movement. But there is one experience which invariably holds good. It is that when things have been liquidated—stocks, bonds—and commodities—prices are about at bottom.

"Big bankers think that is the case today. Their opinion is emphasized by the improvement in investment conditions. This is not anything to future, and the feeling in important financial circles, is that with the approach of summer more active, stronger security markets will be seen.
