DANISH FARMERS ARE SCIENTIFIC

The Climate is the Worst in Europe, Yet They Overcome Great Difficulties.

Dr. Maurice Francis Eagan, the United States Minister to Denmark, who is now in the U. S. on leave of absence, in a recent interview gave some interesting information about farming in Denmark. By co-operation, the Danes have brought under control the exorbitant demands of the mid-temperate climate.

METHODS OF WEED ERADICATION.

Most of our weeds will succumb to cultural methods that must be employed for a few of the worst. The wild oat and the stinkweed are probably the worst annual weeds, and sorrel and Canada thistle the worst perennials.

PREVENTING LOSSES IN MANURE

Barrenyard manure is rich in bacteria, because it offers favorable conditions for their rapid development.

The climate of Denmark is the worst in the whole of Europe, and the soil of the country is naturally of the poorest quality. The tendency over there is to cut up the great estates into small tracts and work these intensively.
