

Fiesole, importance of, 34
 Finland, literature of, 86
 Florence, growth of, considered, 33-36, 104
 Foreigners, influence of, considered, 123-125; influence of, in America, 247, 250
 France in league against Venice, 63; decline of colonial empire of, 69; Indian policy of, 71; literature of, compared with English, 85; effect of Calvinism in, 114; discussed, the fascination of, 163, 166; foreign misunderstanding of, 166-168; women of, 168-172; men of, 173; wealth of, 174-178; status of, 178-181; comparisons with Germany, 205, 206; Richelieu's idea of grand canal for, 214; attitude of, in the event of an Anglo-German war, 221; England's middle class compared with bourgeoisie of, 232

G

Galatia added to Roman Empire, 53
 Gambetta quoted, 180
 Gani conquered by Rome, 52
 Gaza, siege of, 43
 Genoa at war with Venice, 60, 104
 Geniz Khan, conquests of, 53-55, 194
 George Eliot, 250
 Georges Sand, 250
 Germain, Sophie, 250
 Germany, intellectual progress in, 97, 98; indemnity exacted from France, 177; designs of, on Livland and Courland, 179; her Polish possessions, 189-191; considered, 202; the women, 203-205; class distinctions in, 206; intellectuality and organization of, 207; political aspects of, 211; Imperialism, 212-216; socialism in, 216; geographical disadvantages of, 217; policy towards England, 218-222; policy towards Holland, 222-224; future of, 224-226, 239; American students in, 252

Ghibelline struggle with the Guelfs, 35
 Gibbon, his use of the French language, 166
 Gibraltar taken by the English, 72; Richelieu's proposed canal to undermine the power of, 214
 Gideon, his victory over the Midianites, 23
 Giotto, the conditions of his time, 35
 Goethe, his knowledge of French, 166; greatness of, 224, 248
 Gorgias, his debates with Socrates, 29
 Graaf, his criticism of the Old Testament, 142
 Granicus, defeat of Persians at, 43
 Grasso, Admiral de, defeated the English off Cape Henry, 220
 Greece, intellectual progress of, discussed, 77; literature of, 78-94; causes of the downfall of, 101-103, 107
 Greek Church, the, retarding influence of, 200
 Gregory VII., Pope, Emperor Henry IV.'s submission to, 123; organization of, 133
 Grimaldi, 120
 Grotefend, his discovery of the decipherment of cuneiform inscriptions, 8
 Guelf struggle with the Ghibellines, 35
 Guiana added to Dutch Dominion, 66
 Gulden, 120

H

Hagen, Pater, mathematician, 120
 Hamilcar Barca, 11
 Hamlet, 80; the personality of, 147, 148
 Hamurabi, King, code of law of, 9
 Hannibal, 11
 Hastings, Warren, English expansion in India under, 71
 Heine as type of intellectual Jew, 126
 Helmholtz, scientific investigations of, 93
 Henry IV., Emperor, his submission to the Pope, 120