TALKS OF GRAFT

Addresses Large Audience in Red-Letter Day for Toronto New York City-Pierpont Morgan a Hearer.

New York, Sept. 27.—From the pulpit of historic Trinity Church, in the heart of the country's great financial district, Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington Ingram, Bishop of London, delivered the message: "Life is a stewardship, not an ownership."

when all who could be accommodated were within hundreds lingered outside to catch a glimpse of the noted divine. No seats were reserved and pewholders of Trinity parish had to run their chances with the rest. Notable laymen and men prominent in Wall street, across the way, had to stand

Morgan stood at the end of an aisle throughout the opening services. Then a younger man gave up his seat. The audience included many women. Probably there were a hundred of the clergy standing and the rest of men seemed to have come from the banks, law offices and brokerage houses in the neighborhood. It was surely not such an audience as the bishop was accustomed to during the nine years' of his settlement work in the East End of London, as the head of Oxford House, though his ress of this country. "If the universermons are now, for the most part, preached from the pulpit of St. Paul's Cathedral. But the Bishop of London this is the result of the self-sacrificing is evidently not a man who looks over effort of many continued through long his audience first and picks his word years and the generous recognition accordingly. He said: "I know not to whom I am preaching. I shall be as frank here as I am in London. No man who is really a Christian would soil his Christian hands with one dollar, the possession greatest school of efficiency. The modof which he could not justify in the ern world was very different in its sight of heaven."

The bishop presented the figure of an athletic man, tall and angular, with was not essentially different from what a deep, resonant voice. He spoke slow and distinctly and frequently empha- range of subjects had been widened, sized his remarks with gestures. His text was from the second verse according to St. Luke:

"Render the account of thy stewardship: for thou can'st be no longer steward." "The one thing," he said, in part the one sentence which above all others I would say to you, a sentence as yet unlearned in London and New York, and which, if adopted, would cleanse the life on both sides of the Atlantic, is, Life is a stewardship, and not an ownership." to the neglect of the Christian prin- prone to be self-sufficient, and were in todians of what we have, be it wealth which the ripe experience and profes-CASH FOR A FEW SECOND-HAND or anything else, founded on the fact sional skill of the university could New that Christ declared to redeem man thoughts there would be no boodling, capacity in order that the University—Address of the New President.

Toronto, Sept. 26. - Dr. Robert Alexander Falconer was today formally invested with the presidency of the University of Toronto before a brilliant assemblage of invited guests; which included among its number many of the most renowned educationalists on the continent, represent-A greater throng perhaps never ing practically every prominent college sought admission to the edifice, and in the United States and Canada. In addition to the learned men the number of invited guests included the names of many others prominent in political, legal, ministerial, and financial circles, and the presence of many beautifully gowned ladies lent color to the occasion, which was one of the most notable in the history of the University of Toronto. The invited guests gathered in the east hall at 2:30, and marched in procession to the convocation hall, where shortly after 3 o'clock, the inauguration took place. The chancellor, Sir William Meredith, conducted the formal installation. President's Address.

In his address Dr. Falconer expressed the profound sense of responsibility he felt in being granted the appointment of directing the life of such a great university as that of Toronto, which had in the past made such great contributions to the progsity," said he, "seems to stand today at the beginning of new expansion, from the Government." The ideal of the university, he continued, was that it should be a center for devlopment of the nation's chief wealth, its manhood. It should be the environments from what had been.

But still the ideal of the university it had been in the past, although the To devlop a highly-cultivated mind, although it might not conform to the of the sixteenth chapter of the Gospel type produced by classical or historical study, was still its aim. The University of Toronto should occupy more and more a national position, by attracting graduates from every part of the whole Dominion to her well-equipped laboratories and class-rooms. The recent expansion of the university showed that its aim was to meet the requirements of modern life and that it did not belong to any privileged class if such there could be said to be. A spirit of optimism pervaded "All the evils in the world are due all classes of the people, but they were ciple that we are here only as cus- need of the method and discipline he university could i and again place him in fair standing. on its part afford to neglect good If city officials and Government ser- material wherever found, and should vants would live up to these two offer inducements to attract native no miscarriage of fustice and no should get the largest possible benefit from its own people.
