Too much fussing over the complexion, or experimenting with various cosmetics, will sooner or later impart an artificial tinge to the skin. The continued use of highly chemicalized preparations or lotions that fill up the pores is to be avoided. Campana's Italian Balm is as pure and beneficial to the skin as fresh, rich cream.

Mr. Oliver responded in well chosen words, the evening being enjoyed by leader and choir.

THE FIELD OF ART

Morgan Collection Scattered —European War Has Not Lowered Prices of Paintings - Arthur Crisp's Work Enthusiastically Received - News Notes of Artists.

IRENE S. WRENSHALL.

WITHEN the last week completion of sale of the famous collection of Oriental porcelains formed by the late J. Pierpont Morgan, and up to this time on exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum, New York, has been made. The collection has gone back to the heads of the firm who gathered it together for Mr. Morgan—Duven Broff, it is a disappointment to those who have viewed the collection in the museum, and to those who hoped at some time to see it, to learn that it will now be sold—not in its entirety but piece by not in its entirety but piece by piece, scattering among the collections of the world. . . . .

A N EXHIBITION and sale of paintings and scurpiurar to be held for the benefit of the relief fund for the families of French soddlers artists is now on in New York, and some of the most prominent of that city's artists have contributed their work.

Contract to the supposition which has been in the minds of many collectors—that art on account of the war has become a "bargain article"—prices for European paintings have not materially lowered, the there is perhaps a greater influx of examples of the work of "old land" artists into America than before.
