

THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1908.

ALL THE LATEST NEWS, VIEWS AND
COMMENT ONFIGHTERS SHOULD SEE SOME GREAT WORK WHEN
BURNS MEETS JOHNSONJohnson Has Been After the Champion for Two Years and When They Clash in Australia Next Month He Will Wipe Out Old Scores.

Unless there is a slip up of some sort Tommy Burns, the scotch heavy weight champion pugilist of the world, will meet Jack Johnson, the big negro, in a fight to a finish at Sydney, New South Wales, next month. In a letter to the New York Sun, Sam Fitzpatrick, Johnson's manager, who handled Peter Jackson and Kid Lavigne in their palmy days, writes that the men have signed articles to box for a purse of $35,000, to be divided on the basis of $21,000 to the winner and $14,000 to the loser. In view of the fact that Burns before he left England for Australia declared that he would not fight Johnson unless he received $30,000 win, lose or draw, this information from Fitzpatrick appears to be in the nature of a surprise.

If the mill is on the level and there is no reason to believe that it will not be decided on its merits, a great fight should be the result. Johnson, 6 feet 9 inches tall and weighing 200 pounds fighting weight, has been trying to make a match with Burns for two years. He has always maintained that he could beat Burns to a limited round bout or to a finish and has repeatedly offered to stop the fight at any time. Johnson, a fourth rate, the so-called champion inside of 20 rounds, has been trying to make a match with Burns for two years. He has always maintained that he could beat Burns to a limited round bout or to a finish and has repeatedly offered to stop the fight at any time.

Burns then began the easy task of knocking out pugilists. He stopped Billy Squires in a few punches in California, but that was after Johnson had gone all the way to Australia to make an unsuccessful attempt to get Burns into the ring with him. When Johnson returned to America and began to hunt challenges thick and fast at Burns, the latter suddenly packed his trunk and went to England. When he arrived the other side Burns said that he was the undisputed champion of the world and the English sporting fraternity went wild over him. Gunner, a fourth rate, was trotted out as Burns' first victim at the National Sporting Club of London and the Britisher was nothing more than a punching bag. Then Burns whipped Tiger Smith, a mixed race bruiser, in a couple of wallops, after which he went to Dublin and took on Jim Roche, another job who couldn't fight at all. Burns all this time was coming money in the muscle and telling people he could beat any man in the world.

In the midst of it all Jack Johnson issued a challenge to fight Burns for the championship of the world. The National Club and other boxing organizations immediately agreed to hang up purses or the mill, but Burns said that he would not think of fighting unless he got $30,000 in cash before he entered the ring. Johnson had him cornered with public opinion behind him the negro actually drove Burns out of England. It did not take long for the leading British sporting authorities to hail Johnson as the real champion.

THE ALGONQUINS
PLAY TOMORROWLocal Football Team Will Meet
the U. N. B. on the Shamrock Grounds.

U. N. B.'s defeat yesterday by Acadia will put the Collegians on their mettle against the Algonquins on the Shamrock grounds tomorrow. The Indians, after their indoor practice Wednesday night, feel that with their strengthened team they will repeat the trick of Acadia and lower the colors of U. N. B. This game, with the two intermediate contests, Victoria vs. Carleton and Miramichi vs. Carleton, all on the same ground, should prove a good afternoon's football.

LIBERALS OF KENT HAVE CELEBRATION

LeBlanc, Kent county, Oct. 29.—The Liberals of this section of the county held a big demonstration on Tuesday evening to celebrate the notable victory of Hon. O. J. LeBlanc, the Liberal candidate for parliament. A huge bonfire of four rows of barrels piled high was formed in J. D. Irving's yard, and was the centre of the demonstration. A procession headed by J. D. Irving's auto, appropriately decorated for the occasion, was a big success. The occupants of the automobile were: Hon. O. J. LeBlanc, the successful candidate, F. X. LeBlanc, J. B. Goggin, R. A. Irving and J. D. Irving. A very large number of people formed in line and walked to the scene of the bonfire, where speeches were delivered by the members: R. A. Irving, Mr. Goggin, A. Legere, Godwin Robichaud and Godwin LeBlanc. People were present from all over the county and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. It was one of the greatest celebrations ever held in Kent county.

Judge Landry came in on the Boston train last evening.

Black Watch
Black Plug
The Chewing Tobacco
of Quality.

The annual meeting of the New Brunswick Railway Company was held yesterday afternoon. The retiring directors were re-elected: Robert Meighen, of Montreal, was elected president, and Col. H. H. McLean, vice president. Only the usual routine business was transacted. Mr. Meighen came here from Montreal to attend the meeting.

Fred D. Widdler, accountant of the Bank of Montreal here, who has been appointed manager of the branch at Megantic, left by C. P. R. last evening to take up his new duties.

TOO MUCH MONEY SPENT ON NON-ESSENTIALS OF SPORT—A HALIFAX VIEW

Halifax the other night gave a memorable reception to the first-footed members of the Halifax team who made such a good showing in the Montreal road race. There were bands, fireworks and processions; an address to the returning heroes by the mayor of Halifax and some other very classy doings. All of which leads a Halifax Mail reporter to write upon the pomps and vanities of such occasions.

The whole result of the philosophizing may be summed up in one pithy sentence—there is too much money spent upon the non-essentials in sport. Here is the article, it is worth reading even if St. John does not have as many opportunities as Halifax to welcome athletic champions home with open arms.

After the conclusion of the celebration last night a reporter of The Mail was an interested listener at a discussion which was carried on by members of sporting clubs who had gathered together. The talk turned to celebrations of this kind, functions which are becoming more and more frequent in this city. The suggestion was advanced that the thing was being carried too far. Of course, this talk was not all popular with most of those present, who had just returned from taking part in the event of the evening. They were advancing the regulation arguments, contending that the splendid victory of the runners deserved commendation, and that such celebrations tend to create an interest in sport.

The arguments advanced by them were sound and reasonable. Quite a number of those present sided with the

WITNESS IN GURNEY CASE WILL BE EXAMINED BY COMMISSIONER HERE

J. Roy Campbell Will Take the Evidence of Alice Sweeney on Monday—Judge Gregory Adjourns Court Until December
7th in Hope That Settlement May Be Arranged.

Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 29.—In the divorce case this afternoon in the case of J. A. Gurney vs. Mary Eliza Gurney, Judge Gregory made an order granting Mrs. Gurney $1500 alimony and $1000 suit money. The husband was given until December 15 to pay the amount to the registrar of the court.

It was agreed to allow the case to stand over until Monday, December 1, when the husband was to be examined by the commissioner. The judge thought that the mother should be at the house to have possession of the children. Mr. Skinner contended that Dr. Gurney had not always looked after the children. Mrs. Gurney had no reason for taking them away from him. Dr. Gurney had certain rights under the law and there was room in his house for the children. He had rights under the law and there was room in his house for the children.

After the question of alimony had been disposed of, the case was adjourned. There was no evidence taken today, the time of the court being taken up by argument of counsel on the question of alimony. The judge asked for $3000 and was granted half the amount. Dr. Gurney offered to let his wife and children have the house together with the furniture and the right to live in the house. He offered to let his wife and children have the house together with the furniture and the right to live in the house.

When court resumed this afternoon, Mr. Skinner made an objection and had nothing to do with his investments in steamboats. He took no stock in the idea that a reconciliation between the parties would be the best way to settle the matter.

Mr. Ted pointed out that as Mrs. Gurney had supported the children she should be paid for it.

Mr. Skinner proposed that the children be taken back to Dr. Gurney's home, and if this was done he was perfectly willing to pay his wife's board and allow her to go where she pleased. He was also willing that she should have the privilege of seeing the children any hour in the day.

Mr. Hanington argued it would be an insult to Mrs. Gurney to ask her to take the children back to Dr. Gurney's home. The judge contended that there was no law under which he could grant alimony. He held that Mrs. Gurney had no right to take the children from home without her husband's consent.

Mr. Hanington declared that Dr. Gurney had accused his children of practicing bad habits and further declared that he was not willing to let his children live with him. He declared that he was not willing to let his children live with him.

His Honor proposed that Dr. Gurney pay his wife $1500 alimony and $1000 suit money and this was agreed for some time. Mr. Skinner thought the case should stand until January 1, with the hope that a reconciliation might be arrived at in the meantime.

The judge remarked that he noticed the plaintiff shake her head as if she did not want to the arrangement. He wished her to understand that she would have to accept the terms laid down by the court. He was a man with a family and knew something of the feelings of a father.

Mr. Ted thought the terms proposed were satisfactory. His Honor decided that the alimony should be paid as follows: Fifty dollars on November 2, $50 on December 1 and $50 on December 15, and that the suit money should be paid on December 1.

Mr. Ted said that he had a witness named Alice Sweeney, now living in Boston, and he would like to have her evidence taken before she left town. It was agreed that the evidence should be taken by commission in St. John on Monday.

J. Roy Campbell was agreed upon as commissioner.

TORONTO TO VOTE ON LICENSE REDUCTION

Toronto, Oct. 29.—A bye-law will be submitted to the electors of Toronto next January to reduce the number of liquor licenses from 150 to 100, the city council so deciding this afternoon.

George C. Coster left last evening for Ottawa.

OF TRACK, FIELD AND ARENA AT HOME AND ABROADMANY STRANGE STORIES
HAVE BEEN TOLD ABOUT
GREAT ENGLISH DERBYThe Famous Turf Classic is Surrounded With Many Mysteries—Some Tales That Show How the Best
Laid Schemes Sometimes Go Wrong.

If it were possible to write the full and true history of the Derby it would be a very different tale from what has been told of Teddington's Derby but for the prompt action of his wide awake owner, Sir Joseph Hawley, says an English exchange.

There is, for instance, little doubt that a very different tale would have been told of Teddington's Derby but for the prompt action of his wide awake owner, Sir Joseph Hawley, says an English exchange. When the Kentish baronet attended the York spring meeting of 1881 he was amazed to find the bookmakers eager to lay odds to any amount against his colt, who was looked on as a certain winner of the blue ribbon a few weeks later. Sir Joseph at once counted meekly, and, leaving the course, he travelled as fast as relays of swift horses could take him to his training quarters, where he communicated his suspicions to Aelo Taylor, his trainer.

As the result of their deliberations Teddington was at once removed to another box, placed under the charge of a different boy and a strict watch kept over him night and day. What ever scheme was on foot to disable the horse was thus effectually checked. Teddington soon returned to his place as first favorite in the betting, and, as everybody expected, won the Derby with ease.

Another mystery which has not been solved to this day is associated with Leander and that memorable Derby of 1844. It was more than suspected that the post a four-year-old, but there was not sufficient evidence on which to base an objection to his running. In the race his fetlock was broken by a kick from Running Rein, and he was effectually placed hors de combat. He was shot and buried, but when a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water. But when it became necessary to produce the horse for a claim to the prize money it was found that he, like Leander's telltale head, had been spirited away.

In connection with Running Rein, by the way, a dramatic story is told. A Captain Osborne had backed Orlando for the Derby, and when the finish of the Derby was told, he was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which alone could settle the matter, was gone.

Retan, the second favorite for this race, was made safe by a cunningly devised bolus, but who administered it was never ascertained, and to crown this Derby with the most shady and fraudulent on record, Running Rein, which came in first, was found to be none other than Macabene, a four-year-old, and thus an impostor of the first water.

It is of this race that the following remarkable story is told: During the night before the race a party of sportsmen who wished to test their suspicions dug up the body at dead of night they found that the dead, which