CRACK SHOT HAS KILLED 600 RATS

Armed With a Rifle and Flashlight, Captain Starts War on Rodents.

New York, Nov. 22.—The rat population of the Central Park Zoo has fallen off a lot in the last three months because of the deadly marksmanship of Captain H. S. Reynolds of the Police Reserves attached to the Arsenal Police Station. Captain Reynolds, with a rifle to which he has attached a flash light, has killed more than 600 rats that have annoyed the animals, and now he has to hunt hard to bag even half a dozen.

He is a crack shot, and supplemented his skill with a flashlight, which not only enabled him to see rats, but dazzled them so that they stood still for a moment when the light first hit them. The first night he went after rats he got thirty-six, but last night, after hunting all through the animal buildings, he was able to shoot only six. So he thinks he has the rats nearly exterminated.

Captain Reynolds said he started shooting the rats not only to keep them from bothering the animals, but to keep his eye in training. He has become known in his nocturnal prowls to every animal in the zoo, and they all seem to welcome him except Joe, a big chimpanzee. Joe tries to get out of his cage and cat Reynolds every time he appears.

A membership crusade meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. David's church was held yesterday afternoon, with a large attendance of the women of the congregation. The president, Mrs. Johnston, explained the object of the meeting and appealed for wider support for the work of the organization. A short musical programme was given, and during its progress the members sewed on work for the Christmas bazaar which is sent annually to children at Mintio. Tea was served at 5 o'clock.

RAGES WILDLY; THEN TAKES LIFE

German Reporter in Paris Caught in a Deception—Rival Girls Leave as Friends.

Paris, Nov. 23.—The death of a German newspaperman, Bruno Buchenbacher, Paris correspondent of several German papers, after swallowing a large quantity of veronal, has brought to light a story which, but for its tragic ending has all the markings of a real Parisian triangle comedy.

On Friday evening a young French stenographer, Mile. Huguetto, who has been on friendly terms with the German, and went off together to a party at the home of a friend, and the dancer does not know French, but that did not prevent them at first glance from recognizing each other as rivals, then to discover that each for months had been living in the happy belief that she was the sole object of Buchenbacher's affections.

ROB SALOON ON A FAKE WARRANT

Pose as Revenue Agents With Imposing Document Purporting to Give Right of Search.

New York, Nov. 22.—Fake Federal prohibition agents have been costly for many saloonkeepers, restaurant owners and other alleged violators of the Volstead act, who have been frightened into paying large sums of money under threat of arrest, and now they have gone a step further in their scheme to "shake down" the places where liquors are sold. In their raids yesterday, Isay Einstein and Moe Smith, Federal Prohibition Agents, came across a spurious search warrant, bearing the signature of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, which had been used the day before to "clean out" the saloon in question of all liquors on hand.

"Give me a drink," said Isay as he walked into the saloon of the address of M. Robinson, 1480 Fifth avenue. "Haven't got a drop," said the owner. "Three revenue men were in here yesterday and cleaned me out."

"How that?" inquired Isay. "Well, the revenue men came in here, three of them, with a search warrant and went through everything in the place," the owner replied.

"Know a little something about legal documents," Isay said. "Let me see the paper on which they 'cleaned you out.'"

A single sheet of paper, a heavy bond, was handed to Isay. In the lower right-hand corner was a large seal, attractively done in gold, purporting to be that of the "Internal Revenue Bureau."

The paper appeared to be a warrant of search and seizure. It was printed in imposing type, blank spaces being left to fill in the names and description of premises and county and state in which search was to be made. Got up in this fashion, the agents are led to believe that it has been planned to give the spurious search warrants a national circulation.

"The search warrant," which was taken up by the agents, read as follows: United States of America, Warrant of Search. Issue 4872. Serial 9724. Date 4488. 9728.
