SNOWY BAKER'S VISIT

R. L. "Snowy" Baker, Australian sporting promoter, has concluded his visit to the States and is now enroute to his home in Sydney, with nothing but the best of feeling for everything American. His trip to America and also to England and France, as regards the boxing game, was just what he wanted to put him in touch with the game from all angles. He has gained much information which will stand him in good stead later on when dealing for big matches.

"The trip has been an eye-opener for me," said Mr. Baker, "and I hope to make it over again next year if possible, if not then the year following. I did not come expressly to sign boxers for my stadiums in Australia, but to get in touch with the situation and at the same time have a pleasure trip. Of course I did not pass up any opportunity ties to secure good men. There are some of the stars here who are exorbitant in their demands, but I see that the promoters here have the same trouble in signing them for matches. "The no-decision plan is all wrong. It gives the boxers too much leeway and the public suffers if they are inclined to loaf in a contest, for it is the public that always pays the freight, no matter whether it is a poor fight or not. Where a decision is given the boxers have no alternative but to give their best efforts, unless they want to be put out of business. I believe that the demand for practically all the gate by some of the fighters is doing much to hurt the game. It will react on them later on, for the public will not stand for the high prices, knowing that the boxers are the only ones who force them up. You can say that I have not signed one boxer to go to Australia from the States, except those who have already gone, but I hope to have some more Yankees visit Sydney next fall and winter. There is no country in the world where boxing is so flourishing as in Australia, and I have visited all the centers. The states support the game in a wonderful way, but you cannot always depend upon good houses week in and week out, as in Sydney. Once in a while you have a big gate, but they do not average up so well as in Australia."

"While in France I had an opportunity to judge conditions there pretty well and must say they have advanced wonderfully. They are simply wild over boxing and much of the enthusiasm must be attributed to the showing and great popularity of George Carpentier, the champion of that country. He is a sensational fighter and if he had a little more weight would be world's champion. Jack Johnson not excepted. Carpentier is a handsome young fellow, with a fine bearing, one of the kind who would attract attention in a boxing ring."

street. He is not twenty-one years of age, but has the bearing of a gallant man of thirty. I had him to an agreement to go to Australia, offering him a fabulous sum, but at the last moment he backed out. He dreads the water and I think there is a little girl who has charms which Georges cannot pass up. I would gladly have taken him along, even though I did not make a penny on him, just to show him to my people."

Mrs. Smith was engaging a new servant, and sat facing the latest applicant. "I hope," said she, "that you had no angry words with your last mistress before leaving."

"O, dear, no, mum; none whatever," the prospective maid replied, with a toss of her head. "While she was having her bath I just locked the bathroom door, took all my things, and went away as quietly as possible."—Youth's Companion.

Stomach Troubles Due to Acidity

SO SAYS EMINENT SPECIALIST

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind, stomach-ache, and inability to retain food, are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach causing the formation of gas and acids. Wind distends the stomach, and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food. Such fermentation is unnatural, but may involve most serious consequences if not corrected. To stop or prevent fermentation of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and render it bland and harmless, probably the best and most effective corrector of acid stomach known should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water immediately after eating, or whenever wind or acidity is felt. This stops the fermentation, and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments. Fermentation, wind and acidity are dangerous and unnecessary. Stop or prevent them by the use of a proper antacid, such as bisulphated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist and thus enable the stomach to do its work properly without being hindered by poisonous gas and dangerous acids.

The Featherweight Champion

FROM T. S. ANDREWS

Milwaukee, May 19.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, is keeping busy, notwithstanding that there are few really high class featherweights for him to battle against. He is matched with Benie Chavez, a Colorado boy, in a ten-round bout in Denver, May 29. Chavez has been making an excellent showing in the past few months, but it is not likely that he will be able to stand up successfully against the champion.

It was expected that Kilbane would go into the lightweight class before this, but he is in no hurry so long as he can get the featherweights to meet. His first clash as a lightweight will probably be when he meets Johnny Griffiths in a 12-round bout in Akron, Ohio, on July 4. If this match materializes, Kilbane will have his hands full, for the Ohio lad is clever and almost as fast as the little champion.

CANADIANS SEEING ENGLAND

Historic Buildings and Museums Protected from Suffragettes.

(Times' Special Correspondence.)

London, May 8.—Canadians who have been visiting London during the last few months have found their enjoyment considerably curtailed by reason of the closing of great national institutions as a consequence of the outrages of suffragettes. Now, however, the ban has been lifted and admission is arranged on the same conditions as in former years. The only perceptible difference is a large increase in the number of guardians. Hampton Court Palace, which was one of the last to re-open its doors, seems to be one of the most popular resorts for Canadians, judging by the number visiting this old palace of Henry VIII on the river Thames. Its gardens are among the finest in England.

Tourist agencies in London are developing special circular tours by motor for Canadians, to take in all points of interest in the immediate vicinity of London. They are supplying a long-felt want, and are becoming very popular. Unfortunately, the majority of visitors from the dominion confine their attention to points of interest in London itself, thereby losing a great deal of enjoyment. One of these agencies conveyed no fewer than 500 Canadians on a tour through the Thames Valley. This feature will be very popular this year.

Into a New York jewelry store there went a shy, pretty young lady with her engagement ring, which had been bought there and which she would like to have changed.

The ring fitted exactly, and she was greatly pleased with the noble sentiment of the inscription: "Whatever betide, let love abide," but she did not like its arrangement.

Examination showed that the stolid, unimaginative old German engraver had carved in the sentence regardless of the ringmaker's little stamp of quality, and so it read: "Whatever betide, let 14-k love abide."
