THE BIRTH OF THE "CRIME OF AMALGAMTED."

How Standard Oil Made $36,000,000 Profits on a Single Deal.

The great Anaconda mine and affi-The great Anaconda mine and affiliated properties, previous to the creation of the Amalgamated, were owned by J. B. Haggin, Lloyd Tevis and Marcus Daly. The control of the properties and their operations were absolutely vested in Marcus Daly, and he leave the control of the properties and their operations were absolutely vested in Marcus Daly, and he leave the control of the properties and the control of the properties and the tely vested in Marous Daly, and he alone knew where the lean veins ended and the fat ones began. Deep down in his mind Marcus Daly cherished a dream—a dream of immense riches, and it was to be realized in a simple enough way. He should get together the millions to buy out his partners on a basis of the valuation of the "ore in watership." a basis of the valuation of the "ore in sight," then in supreme ownership himself, reap untold profits out of the milling of the plethorio veins he had been so careful to leave unworked. Mr. Daly met Henry H. Rogers. The miner confided his dreams and his aspirations to the magnate, who at once magnificently undertook to realize them. The trade was almost instantly made. Mr. Rogers would buy the properties of Daly, Haggin and Tevis, at "in sight" prices, and Daly would be "in sight" prices, and Daly would be his partner, but the partnership must remain secret until the purchase was

The ownership of the Anaconda Company at the time consisted of 1,200,000 shares, and with the purchase of a few shares over the majority at the "in sight" lean-vein valuation of $24,000,sight" lean-vein valuation of $24,000,000, would carry the turn-over of the management and the control. It took but a brief time to get together the other properties which were finally included in the first section of the Amalgamated. They consisted of the Colorado, Washoe, and Parrot Mining Companies, and timber, coal and other lands, and mercantile and like properties situated in the State of Montana, for which Mr. Rogers paid in round for which Mr. Rogers paid in round agures $15,000,000, a total of $39,000,000 for which within a few days after pur-rhase was capitalized at $75,000,000 in the Amalgamated Company.—Thomas W. AUGUST MAGAZINES.

Leslie's Monthly. Ralph Connor begins a new novel tion number of Leslie's Monthly Maga-zine, and the first chapters promise a better story than either "The Sky Pi-lot" or "Black Rock." There are eleven other stories in this number, by such people as George Hibbard, Henry C. Rowland, Alice MacGowan, Holman F. Day, H. I. Greene and Rex Beach, and they cover nearly every, variety of up-to-date fiction,
J. Adam Bede, the humorist of the house of representatives, has a most amusing article on "The Spellbinders," whom we all expect to listen to during the next few months, in which he tells a number of good stories. There are also remarkable photographs of the St. Louis Fair and portraits of the men who created that exposition, and a helpful little sketch of the cost of a visit to St. Louis this summer. The delightful verses by Kenneth Harris, with some remarkably good drawings by Reginald Birch, are an attractive feature of the number, and Mrs. Call's monthly paper on "The Freedom of Life," as usual, is well worth reading and thinking about.

The Delineator. In addition to entertaining fiction for eisure hours, the August Delineator contains something for each of the practical needs of woman. In dress, the latest styles are depicted, with the aid of handsome colored plates and drawings in black and white, and the movements in fashion described. The kitchen, the table, the garden, the nur-sery, beside the lighter interests of woman, such as her reading, her clubs and other amusements, are treated from various standpoints. The literary features of the number are of the ighest order. There are three storiettes that furnish the exact flavor that is ooked for in summer reading, by Carroll Watson Rankin, Alice MacGowan and Cyrus Townsend Brady. Lillie Hamilton French, in the delightful "Joy of Living" series, writes on the Manner of Receiving, and Seumas Mac-Manus and Elizabeth Ruggles contribute excellent verse. A timely article by Edward Emerson, Jr., on "The Attied our linen department, and we can assure you that we are highly pleased with the results. Every week new cusclusive portraits of women who are story of Elizabeth Kenton, wife of the noted Indian fighter, General Simon Kenton, is told in the "Pioneer Wo-men" series, and in the pictorial trip around the world the cities of the Me-diterranean are done in thorough tour ist style. In addition, there are plans for summer cabins on seashore and mountains, and a most entertaining collection of stories and pastimes for Everybody's Magazine. That Everybody's Magazine has the biggest "scoop" of the era in Thos. W. Lawson's "Story of Amalgamated" is abundantly shown by the first instal-ment of the series proper which is in the August number. The foreword was portentous with promise of startling disclosures. The initial chapters introduce the secret organization of who is a person almost unknown to the public. It is a wonderful picture Mr. Lawson gives of the huge business ma-Broadway, New York, and he paints, for the first time in his real colors, the man he declares to be the greatest business genius of the period, Henry H.
