cummin were small seeds, like the caraway or the chickpea. When these grains or herbs were to be threshed, they were thrown on the floor, and the workmen would come around with staff or rod or flail and beat them until the seed would be separated, but when the corn was to be amid the gunpowder explosions of a threshed that was thrown on the great holiday, and ever and anon threshed that was thrown on the floor, and the men would fasten oxen or horses to a cart with iron dented wheels; that cart would be drawn around the threshing floor, and so the work would be accomplished. ferent products. The great thought that the text presses upon our souls is that we all through some kind of threshing process. The fact that you may be devoting your life to honorable and noble purposes will not win you any escape. Wilberforce, the Christian emancipator, was in his day derisivey called "Doctor Cantwell." Thomas Babington Macaulay, the advocate of all that was good, long before he became the most conspictous historian of his day, was caricatured in ne of the quarterly reviews as "Bab-Norman Mcbletongue Macaulay.' Leod, the great friend of the Scotch poor, was industriously maligned in ill quarters, although on the when he was carried out to his burthe funeral procession, and said: "If he had done nothing for anybody more than he has done for me, he would shine as the stars for ever and ever." All the small wits of London had their fling at John Wesley, the father of Methodism. If such men could not escape the maligning of the world, neither can you expect to get rid of the sharp, keen stroke of the tribulum. All who will live to hew it out and fashion it and godly in Jesus Christ must suffer persecution. Besides that, there are of the great Jehovah. God is always he sicknesses and the bankruptcies and the irritations and the disappointments which are ever putting a cup of aloes to your lip. Those wrin-kles on your face are hieroglyphics which, if deciphered, would make out a thrilling story of trouble. The the white hairs of the aged are the footprints showing where swift trou-

My subject, in the first place, teaches us that it is no compliment to us if we escape great trial. The fitches and the cummin on one threshing floor might look over to the corn on another threshing floor and say, Look at that poor, miserable, bruis ed corn! We have only been a little ips, would answer and say: account is flush and there are no funcause you are but little worth and smaller world and in some trouble, perhaps it is because there is going to be a very small yield. Another thing my text teaches us is going to be a very small yield. but the sea continues very heavy.

When there are plenty of blackberries the gatherers go out with large baskets, but when the drought has almost consumed the fruit, then a quart measure will do as well. It took the venomous snake on Paul's hand, and the pounding of him with stones until he was taken up for dead and the imming against him.

Solve the christian sorrow is going to be a very small yield. When there are plenty of blackberries the gatherers go out with large baskets, but when the drought has almost essential to have a sure terminus. My text says, "Bread corn is bruished because he will not be ever threshing it." Blessed be God for that! Pound away, O fail! Turn on, O wheel! Your work will soon be done. the value of the grain.

Next, my text teaches us that God proportions our trials to what we can bear—the staff for the fitches, the rod for the cummin, the iron wheel for the corn. Sometimes people in great trouble say, "Oh, I can't bear it!" But you did bear it. God would not have sent it upon you if he had the King's table and has his own not have sent it upon you if he had not known that you could bear it.

You trembled and you swooned, but you got through. God will not take from your eyes one tear too many ness, for there are no pneumonias nor from your lungs one sigh too in the air and no malarial exhalaoh, no; they are threshing instruments that God just suits to your

Washington, March 22.—From a process familiar to the farmer Dr. Talmage draws lessons of consolation and encouragement for people in sorrow and adversity. The text is Isainh xxviii, 27, 28: "For the fitches are not threshed with a threshing instrument, neither is a cart wheel turned about upon the cummin, but the fitches are beaten out with a staff and the cummin with a rod. Bread corn is bruised because he will not ever be threshing it."

Misfortunes of various kinds come upon various people, and in all times the great need of ninety-nine people out of a hundred is solace. Look, then, to this neglected allegory of my text.

There are three kinds of seed mentioned—fitches, cummin and corn. Of "Any other trial but this." Your trial perhaps may be a disfigured countenance or a face that is easily caricatured, and you say, "I could endure anything if only I was good looking." And your trial perhaps is a violent temper, and you have to drive it like six unbroken horses amid the gunpowder explosions of a great holiday, and ever and anon great holiday." it runs away with you. Your trial is the asthma. You say, "If it were the rheumatism or neuralgia or ery-sipelas, but it is this asthma, and it is such an exhausting thing to breathe." Everybody has some vexaor she thinks it is the one least adapted. "Anything but this," all say; "anything but this." My hearer, are you not ashamed to be complainmin with a rod. Bread corn is be bruised because he will not ever be manages the affairs of this world anyhow? Is it an infinite Modoc or a Sitting Bull savage or an omnipotent Nana Sahib? No; it is the most merciful and glorious and wise being in all the universe. You cannot teach omnipotence anything. You have fretted and worried almost enough. Do you think so? Some of you are making yourselves ridiculous in the sight of the angels. Here is a naval architect, and he draws out the plan of a ship of many thousand tons. Many workmen are engaged on it for a long while. The ship is done, and some day, with the flags up and the air gorgeous with bunting, that vessel is launched for Southampton. At that time a lad six years of comes running down the dock with a toy boat which he has made with his own jackknife, and he says: "Here, my boat is better than yours,

Just look at this jibboom and these weather crossjack braces." And he weather crossjack braces." And he drops his little boat beside the great ship, and there is a roar of laughter on the decks! Ah, my friends, great ship is your life as God planned it-vast, million tonned, ocean destined, eternity bound! That little right, and in nine cases out of ten you are wrong. He sends just the hardships, just the bankruptcies, just the cross that it is best for you to nave. He knows what kind of grain you are, and he sends the right kind of threshing machine. It will be rod

The farmer shouts "Whoa!" to his orses as soon as the grain is dropped from the stalk. The farmer comes with his fork and tosses up the straw, and he sees that the straw has let go the grain and the grain is thoroughly threshed. So God. Smiting rod and turning wheel pounded, but that has been almost both cease as soon as we let go. We destroyed." Well, the corn, if it had hold on to this world, with its pleasures and riches and emoluments, and our knuckles are so firmly set that you know the reason you have not our knuckles are so firmly set that been as much pounded as I have? It it seems as if we could hold on disease germ can live in it. For whooping-cough and croup it is a positive and quick cure, while for all throat and bronchial troubles it is the Lord's favorites simply because the best remedy you can use.

Yet there are men who suppose they are their bank are full and thei and so many miles in diameter cause they are fitches and cummin, said, "Oh, my, what a world!" while down at the end of the lane the poor widow may be the Lord's trouble sliced off one part of the corn. You are but little pounded be-world, and it has got to be a Big Storm on Eastern Nova Scotia Coast.

But it may be well to state that the fitches and the cummin were small seeds, like the trial prophene with the seeds of those who lay so wan and emaciated in the back room that awful night dying? The angel will say: "I will tell you, then, who they are. These are they who came out of great tribu-lation, or threshing, and had their robes washed and made white in the blood of the lamb."

History has no more gratulatory scene than the breaking in of the English army upon Lucknow, India. A few weeks before a massacre had occurred at Cawnpur, and 260 wo-men and children had been put in a room. Then five professional but-chers went in and slew them. Then the bodies of the slain were taken out and thrown into a well. As the English army came into Cawnpur they went into the room, and oh, what a horrible scene the massacre, and the women were waiting for the same awful death, waiting amid anguish untold, waiting in pain and starvation, but waiting heroically, when, one day, Havelock and Outram and Nor-man and Sir David Baird and Peel, the heroes of the English army-huzza for them:-broke in on that horrible scene, and while yet the guns were sounding, and while cheers were issuing from the starvng, dying people on the one and from the travel worn and powder blackened soldiers on the other, right there, in front of the King's palace, there was such a scene andshaking and embracing boisterous joy as would utterly confound the pen of the poet and the pencil of the painter. And no wonder, when these emaciated women, who had suffered so heroically for Christ's sake, marched out from their incarceration, one wounded English soldier got up in his fatigue and wounds and leaned against the wall and threw up his cap and shouted, "Three cheers, my boys, for the brave women!" Yes, that was an exciting scene. But a gladder and more triumphant scene will it be when you come up into heaven from the conflicts and incarceration of this world, streaming with the wounds of battle and wan with hunger, and while the hosts of God are cheering their great Hosanna you will strike hands of congratulation and eternal deliverance in the presence of throne. On that night there will be bonfires on every hill of heaven, and there will be illumination in every palace, and there will be a candle in every window. Ah, no! I forget, I forget. They will have no need of the candle or of sun, for the Lord God giveth them light, and they shall reign forever and ever. Hail, hail, sons and daughters of the Lord God Almighty!
