the salary and they will command it to the full. The office requires an able man, the way in which Crown prosecutions are conducted in the metropolitan county is more or less a pattern for the Province.

Heretofore has been found guilty and will be sentenced to serve a term of months, but it will involve hard labor, which is what such patriots and moral reformers most dread and detest.

A seizure of arms consigned to United States soldiers is a startling innovation in Anglo-American politics. It is a question of affairs and has become so loyal that they threaten to rebel.

The parliament buildings will not be commenced this summer, if one may judge from the talk that is current. No movement is perceptible, though for seven weeks past the Government has been busy with the work which was intended to be commenced.

John C. Gopfinger, Jr., is a writer in the Scientific American of a number of articles endeavoring to prove that the United States is not a democracy.
