"Carrot-top"—a menace to loop basketball teams

By RON TERNOWAY

To Dick DeKlerk he's "milk-toast." Bob Bain calls him "carrot-top," and Coach Barry Mitchelson top," jokingly refers to him as "the runt." But to all other teams in the league he's just plain trouble.

That just about sums up Bob Morris, veteran guard and key playmaker for the basketball Golden Bears

Bob, a third year phys ed student, is back for his second year with the Bruins. He played high school ball for the Scona Lords and in first year toiled for the Junior Bearcats.

At 5'11", 150 pounds, he's sensitive about his size.

"Guards are always small, so there's no point to that," he said.

He emphasized his point last weekend netting 35 points in two games, mostly with accurate jump shots from outside and with fast break lay-ups.

Anyone witnessing a Bear game within the last two years has observed Morris harassing the op-position with what he terms "talk-ing to them politely." This consists of stamping feet, flashing fingers, growling and yelling, often simul-taneously, and Bob is very proficient at it.

"You've got to beat them men-lly as well as physically," he tally said.

Bob feels that the team this year is more closely knit than last year's squad, a sentiment with which Mitchelson agrees.

"It's unusual to find team spirit so high so early in the season with a relatively young team," said a relativer Mitchelson.

In the eyes of Coach Mitchelson, experience and hard work by 4th Floor, SUB.

Morris have helped to remove many of the weaknesses which he had last year.

"Bobby is more court-conscious this year, and also a more con-sistent shooter. He has learned to set up plays rather than shoot when his shooting is off."

Morris will be with his team-mates tonight as the Bears lay their unbeaten record on the line against the tough University of Manitoba Bisons. With all of last year's first string back and a couple of American players, Manitoba will be one of the teams that the Bears must beat. The Bisons were the only team to defeat the Bears last year and will be a real contender this year, although they dropped their first game to UBC.

Saturday the Bruins take on the University of Winnipeg Wesmen in another league encounter. Al-though in the Western Canada Intercollegiate Basketball League for only their second season, the Wesmen have improved and cannot be taken too lightly.

The action this weekend will wind up all WCIBL games for the Bears before Christmas.

Mitchelson's squad will not be dormant, however, as they play four exhibition games with Mon-tana teams before resuming their schedule on the road Jan. 9-10 against UBC and the University of Victoria.

The games in British Columbia will probably be the toughest for the Bears all season. UBC dumped Manitoba in their opening league game and promise to be a real power this year.

Next home games for the hoopsters will be two exhibition contests with College of Great Falls, Montana, Jan. 2-3.
