

Three bands play tonight in SUB

CHSR-FM with The Bruns will be presenting Fredericton's first concert of 1988. Playing will be Montreal's Fail-Safe, and Fredericton's The Druids and Obituary.

Fail-Safe has progressed out of the Montreal punk scene to become one of Canada's hardest hitting post-punk outfits. They've played with such great acts as Beefeater, Sudden Impact, Deja Voodoo and most recently, The Butthole Surfers. Their self titled album has been tremendously successful on campus stations from Victoria to Halifax, and CHSR is no exception.

The Druids have played five venues in Fredericton including last summer's FAPO benefit concert and First Night. The band attempts to recapture the late '70s punk explosion with their original material and remakes of golden-oldies. Bassist Pete Garvie says The Druids are "... damn cool."

Obituary is a duo who attain a unique sound using synthesizer, guitar, drum machines and various taped effects. They combine their experimental influences with a driving beat to create a danceable but innovative sound. This is their first live appearance anywhere.

The concert will be held tonight in Room 26 of the SUB, next to the cafeteria. Tickets are five dollars with the doors opening at 9:00. A bar will be provided so bring your ID. This is a wet/dry event so non-UNB/STU students, 19 or over, can be signed in at the door. It promises to be an evening of energetic music.
