Next to the Editor The preacher has a hard time of it. If his hair is gray he is old, if he is a young man he hasn't had experience. If he has ten children he has too many. If he has no children he should have and isn't getting a good example. If his wife nags in the choir she is presumptuous. If she doesn't sing she is interested in her husband's work. If a preacher reads his notes before, if he speaks extemporaneously but is not deep enough, if he stays at home in his study he does not mix enough with his people. If he is green around the streets he ought to be home getting up a good sermon. If he calls on some very poor family he is playing to the gallery. If he calls at the home of a rich man he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does someone could have done better. He has a fine living of donations which never come in, and promises that never mature. Next to being an editor the preacher has the world's biggest for a quiet peaceful life. Down the toboggan of time.

Mr. Foy, of Toronto, was in town yesterday.
