and Consumption. The reputation it has attained, in consequence of he marvellous cures it has produced during the last half century, is a sufficient assurance to the public that it will continue to realize the happiest results that can be desired. In almost every ection of country there are person ublicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs, by its use. All who have tried it, acknowledge its superiority; and where its virtues are known, no one hesitates as to what medicine to employ to relieve the dis tress and suffering peculiar to pulmonary affec-

the more formidable diseases of the lungs. As a safeguard to children, amid the distr multitudes are rescued and restored to health.
