

veral Regiments and Corps, comprising both the British and French forces at the outset of the famous battle of the Plains, is also shown. There are also lists of the different Regiments which were engaged in the battle, and the names of their commanders, as also the names of the ships of war engaged, with those of their captains, and their weight of metal. In fact, it is impossible, within the limits of a cursory notice of this description, to specify of the variety and extent of interesting matter contained in this splendid sheet; which must be seen, and attentively studied, to convey a full and proper idea of the research and labour of its compilation, which has been effected from the most authentic and undistorted materials.

A beautiful and highly finished engraving of the Death of Wolfe, after the Picture by West, heads the sheet with most effect. It is a noble and touching scene in the lower corner, representing the mourning of the dead and the lofty principles by the British troops; and an emblematical design of Britannia pointing to a column, on which appropriate inscriptions are seen, and sundry other aids in the ornamental line, which being well conceived, in adaptation to the subject, and elegantly wrought out, combine to add much of beauty to the general effect of the work. The chart is carefully printed from a steel plate engraved by the first London artists; and, altogether, the publication has been got up in a first rate fashion, and at a heavy expense to Mr. Havelock; who, we sincerely hope, will receive all the liberal remuneration to which his enterprise and efforts, in undertaking and completing this truly interesting and beautiful work, so richly entitle him. No individual, in our community, particularly capable of appreciating the cost, and its all interest, from national feeling and pride of country, in the localities of scenes and events which have shed a glorious and undying lustre over one of the brightest pages of British military annals, should be without this Plan; to preserve it as an historic monument, on which no true and loyal subject can gaze without feeling the power of his nation's air warmly within him towards the land of his birth or descent, and whose glory is the pride which fashions its eyes to high and noble deeds of daring and success.

Place Minutes.—We have examined lengthily from our number of the Montreal Transcript to-day, and beg to call the attention of our readers to his excellent and somewhat humorous article on "Evangelicalism." There is little of exaggeration in the statement of matters therein, as they presently exist, as we are well aware, and the any dreaming of some people must be of a that not exactly resembling color de rose. Yet, after all that is said of such things, "a human being," as old Socrates says, in "Jacob Faithful," and the way of the world all over.

The Weather, and so forth.—A slight drizzling rain, freezing as it fell, gave a coating of ice to our streets, on Monday afternoon and night, which was very dangerous to pedestrians; and numerous individuals were hurt, and some seriously, by falls occurred, particularly in descending from the Upper to the Lower Town and St. Roch. In John street the pavement was peculiarly slippery; and our commiseration was strongly attracted to the awkward predicament encountered by several fair advertisements on the icy side walks, and who certainly betrayed no small share of timidity in braving the dangerous and dangerous of the afternoon's promenade. Slips and trips, jumps and bumps, falls and calls, were quite the order of the hour; and whereas the crossings or recrossings of the streets presented a more than common treacherous foothold, the splendid attitudinizing parades of many beautiful and bewitching figures to preserve an upright position, was certainly to be admired by all true lovers of the lovely and graceful in motion, and the effort almost withheld one from deprecating the cause. However, much we fear that many a dusty foot and gait were wrenched and twisted on the occasion. There was a liberal display of particularly impudent and prying young fellows, prying about in their black coats and storm hats, who might just as well have remained at home "reading good books," as that to be wandering to and fro; gazing upon and littering at mischief which could not be prevented, or else, with a delicate consideration, both manly and gentle-mannerly have employed themselves in spelling the signs as they moved along.

For the Quebec Argus.

Now Jacky since the "Gazette" abroad are gone. Copy the "Argus" and you may see for one. Replies by Garrick.

Mr. Argus.
I really do not well know to what particular merit in my two preceding light and trifling communications to your paper, to attribute the kind and favorable reception they have met with, but this has induced me again to take up my pen, and scribble you a short epistle, on any chance subject which may first and fitfully pass over my giddy thoughts. What say you to my slightly touching on a certain folly, so strikingly prevalent among our native youth, of spinning, as far as they can venture or have the means to do, the "foreign airs and graces" and absurdities of costume and character imported to our shores by military forlorn, or out of hand men of ton—however doubtful and suspicious the pretension and authority of these last may be. Although it may be perceptible enough to their own eyes, yet trust me, it is most particularly and quickly so to ours, when a young man begins to display the ridiculous and unbecomingly vanity to which I allude. True, some one has said or written that "Man is an imitative animal," and so it is a monkey; and thus far, the imitative predilection of nature may be put forth as an excuse or palliation of the fantastic fashions of the one, and the antics and grimaces of the other, and both alike strongly excite one's laughter. But a truce to this moralizing and prying strain, and to the point.

Now Mr. Argus, with your hundred eyes, you cannot have failed to notice a fact, which has been no accident to less gifted mortals possessing a simple pair, and these, with many of us, none of the least, how often "our people" affect to lounge about in certain attitudes of gait, movement, or attitude, particularly our young military beaux, how partly and anon the thing is picked up by other folks, who not being "to the manner born" of such would-be-honourous and aristocracy-courting sallies of dress and demeanour, displayed in their prototypes, make most miserable imitations, and which really sit upon them with a stings, caricature of effect. It is to this lamentable spirit of copyism on the part of young men, otherwise sensible and discreet enough, and heavily alive to the proprieties of their vocation on all matters but this, being well aware of what is due to their own and the appropriate dignity of office, that we daily display of certain of them during the past season are attributable. It is to this spirit, doubtless, to copy the follies of a sphere above their own standing and pretension, that we may set down the profane exhibition of mustaches and imperial smock frocks, much peascod hats, turbans, and "high lows," &c. &c., with all the cigar and pipe smoking and hallooing in the streets and public places, which has become so very much the approved mode of late, to be succeeded by blanket capotes, and bonnets rouges, tobacco chewing and tobacco driving in due course of the season.

To cut the matter and my letter short, Mr. Argus, it is really so painful as astonishing, to observe to what lengths of ridiculous absurdity many young gentlemen, whose time and attention should be legitimately given to their "beat" behind the counter, or the most approved style of boarding their office stools, to see these aspiring youths, spring their hats with might and main, in the way I have pointed out, in all matters of dress, dress, and display; sporting their borrowed feathers, jockey-like, to induce people to value them for what their small wares ambition makes their sole and greatest pride, and betaken if possible, (by mistake) in the chimney, for a fashionable of the first water, or a military casaca.

NOTICE.

TO PERSONS DESIROUS OF SETTLING ON THE LANBTON AND KENNEBEC ROAD.

NOTICE is hereby given that it is the intention of the Government at once to take the necessary steps for settling the Kennebec Road, in conformity to the provincial Statute 5, Geo. 3, cap 21.

Lots of 50 Acres of Land each will be laid out on each side of the road.

Settlers 21 years of age and upwards who have never obtained a grant of Land from Government, may obtain a Lot of 50 Acres on the following conditions:—

1st.—They are to make application to the Emigrant Agent, at Quebec, or to the resident Agent, whenever they shall be ready to become resident, on the tract to be granted.

2nd.—Upon giving a satisfactory account of their means of providing for themselves until a Crop can be raised from the ground, they will receive a Ticket from the Emigrant Agent entitling them to locate the land.

3rd.—Upon application to the resident Agent in the first place, he will forward a statement to the Emigrant Agent, of the applicant's age, family, and means of settlement, upon which, if approved, authority for location will issue.

4th.—The Tickets issued will be useless to any but the applicants, and unless presented to the resident Agent within one month from the date, they will not be received by him. Any person who shall receive a Ticket, and who shall not proceed to the Settlement within one month, or who, having been placed upon land, shall abandon it, will be considered as having lost all claim to receive land.

5th.—Settlers will be required to clear and place once under Crop, one third of the land located, and to reside on the land until the settlement duty is performed, and after one third of the grant shall have been cleared and under crop, the Settler shall be entitled to his Patent, free of expense.

6th.—The Settlement duty is required to be done within two years from the date of the Ticket.

7th.—Settlers who are under the necessity of being temporarily absent from their Locations, will apply to the resident Agent, stating the length of their intended absence, and the reason for it, which will be entered on the Agent's Book if the reason for absence seems sufficient, and any person who shall absent himself without being permitted to do so by the Agent, or who shall remain away from the Settlement, for a longer time than such permission shall authorize, will be considered as having forfeited his location.

8th.—An assignment, or attempt to assign any Ticket or Location, will also be considered as a forfeiture of all right in the Location or Assignee; or if it shall appear that the Location has previously obtained a Grant of Land from Government, his new Location shall be forfeited.

9th.—In all cases of abandonment of Location, the located land will immediately be considered open for new location or sale.

10th.—As it is not the intention of the Government to offer the Settlers any assistance further than the free grant of land, applicants are especially desired to consider for themselves whether or not, they have the means of maintaining themselves and their families until Crops can be raised from the ground.

Mr. C. TASCHEREAU, the Agent for the Settlement of the Kennebec Road, or Mr. BUCHANAN, Agent for Emigrants at Quebec, will furnish any further information which may be required.

THOS. C. MURDOCH,
Chief Secretary.
