Editor "Wesleyan"
Retires.

AFTER SIXTEEN YEARS LABOUR.

Eight years ago the General Conference of the Methodist Church in the Maritime Provinces adopted a regulation which debarred a person over seventy years of age from holding a General Conference office; and this year, the worthy editor of the Wesleyan, Rev. D. W. Johnston, father of Rev. C. H. Johnson M.A., B.D., of Cochrane Street Centennial Church, St. John's, who is just a few days past the allotted term, gracefully bowed to the rule and will retire from the position which, during sixteen eventful years he has filled with eminent advantage to the church and the press and distinguished honor to himself. In a brief valedictory in the columns of the Wesleyan he assures its readers his eye is not dim nor his natural force abated, and that a day's tramp in the woods continues to be a joy; and that while he willingly obeys the law—as all good men should—he has no intention of setting the bread of idleness and "will do some gleaming in the Master's fields."

The trenchant writing of the revered and respected editor has done much to maintain and increase the prestige of the Wesleyan. His was at all times a work of love—and it was well done. The pity is that while still in the prime of the seventies, he is obliged to bow to the inexorable but well-intentioned law and make way for a younger man. He is to be succeeded by the Rev. Herbert F. Thomas, at present pastor of the Exmouth Church in St. John. The impression that Mr. Thomas has made on the work of the church gives assurance that the mantle of Rev. Johnston is falling upon worthy shoulders, and that under his guidance the Wesleyan will continue to be one of the prominent leaders of the religious press.

The Wesleyan was first issued from the press of William Cunnahell, in this city in February, 1898. The first attempt at an official Methodist publication had been made in 1832 by the issue of a quarterly magazine called "The Nova Scotia and New Brunswick Wesleyan Methodist Magazine;" but it was not favorably regarded by the London Missionary Association and was discontinued. The Wesleyan came after it; and has had a successful career under brilliant editors down to the retiring head, Rev. D. W. Johnston who, it will be hoped, has still many useful years of Service before him.—Halifax Herald.

STAR MOVIE LAST NIGHT.

It is hardly necessary on our part to praise this big production at the popular Star last evening, as the packed audience who witnessed it will speak volumes for it, but we may state it was all that was claimed for it. The most appropriate part of the picture was the singing of the "Rosary" by Miss Hilda Krentzlin, and as the execution this lady also sang "Nearer My God To Thee," and her singing was most favorably commented upon, as perhaps she has never been heard to better advantage. The picture is being repeated this evening, and those who failed to see it last night will no doubt do so. In presenting "THE VICTIM" the Management wishes to announce that like "THE FOUR HORSEMEN" this is but one of the many big productions to be shown at this theatre, and that the moving picture people of the city appreciate it is fully evidenced by the large audiences that this popular Theatre is now drawing.

On Wednesday afternoon, November 22nd, the Congregational L.A. & Girls Guild Societies will hold their Annual Autumn Sale. Plain & Fancy Work, Handkerchiefs, Vegetables, Home-made Candy, Pantry requisites. Afternoon and Meat Teas. Concert at 8 p.m. Further particulars later.—nov6.41

Ladies' of B.I.S.

WILL ENTERTAIN TO-NIGHT.
The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benevolent Irish Society are holding a card party, supper and dance in the Society club rooms to-night. Dancing will be indulged in promptly at 9 o'clock the services of Bennett's Orchestra having been secured for the occasion. While the dance is in progress an auction forty-five card tournament will be held for the purpose of those who do not care to participate in the salubrious pastime and tables for this purpose will be provided for in the gentlemen's dressing room. The lady members of the Auxiliary, who are well known for their catering ability will serve supper during the dancing interval. An enjoyable evening's entertainment is anticipated.

Residents of Rawlin's Cross and vicinity wishing to travel to Waterford Bridge Road will now be able to catch the Mack Coach at Rawlin's Cross at 2.20 p.m. every day except Wednesdays and Sundays. Return trips from Waterford Bridge at 3.00 and 4.50 p.m. MARSHALL'S Garage.—nov6.31
