Miss Juch's Favorite Song.

Miss Emma Juch delights in singing the exquisite songs for soprano voice composed by Schumann, Lassen, Rubenstien and Schubert. The following words by Heine, with the musical setting by Schubert, are probably Miss Juch's favorites:

On his way a box carried

On his way a boy espice Protty flushing roses Fresh and bright, the hedgerow's pride: To admire he turns aside. And to pluck proposes, Hoses, roses, roses red Pretty blushing roses,

Then, he speaks, "I gather thee, Gayest of the roses;" Rose says: "Better let me be," Then her thorn discloses, Roses, roses, roses red

Still the rade boy pulls away,
This fair queen of roses,
With a wound he has to pay,
But in vain the rose does pray,
Him in vain opposes,
Roses, roses, roses red
Pretty, blushing roses,
