How Fast a Bird Can Fly.

If you consult the usually accepted authorities on the speed of birds in their flight you are likely to be mis-led by an exaggeration of from 100 to 300 per cent. This is because figures have been given on hearsay, appearances and very superficial observation. But recently American, English and French observers have been comparing notes, and are practically agreed after most careful calculation on the speed of the best-known birds.

credited with 110 miles an hour, but it is now agreed that he is entitled to 50, says the Chicago Chronicle. A quite recent long distance, carefully conducted test of 590 miles, from the Shetland Islands to London, showed that the most rapid pigeons made 37 miles an hour. On shorter distances none has made more than 50 miles. Because frigate birds have not been seen far from land and have been supposed not to fly by night er to rest on the water, they have been credited with a speed of from 150 to 200 miles an If they did fly at that speed they would have to overcome an at-mospheric pressure of from 112 to 130 pounds to the square foot of flying surface. There is no certainty that they do not fly at night or do not sleep on the water. That swallow, that is indeed a rapid flyer, has been credited with 180 miles an hour, but he must be cut down to 65 miles, and the marten to five miles behind him, though authorities have placed him ten ahead. The teal duck is brought down from 140 to 50 miles an hour. The mallard is five miles slower and flies the same as the canvasback, while both of these are five miles an hour ahead of the wild goose and eider duck.

Small birds appear to fly more ra-pidly than the large ones, and have deceived many observers. The humming bird does not fly as fast as many awkward appearing, very much larger, slow flapping birds.

BRIDE HAS TYPHOID AT THE ALTAR.

But Would Not Disappoint the Guests by a Postponement—Broke Down and Was Hurried Back to Her Home.

[New York Sun.]

Suffering from a high fever which doctors have pronounced typhoid, and in a delirium, Mrs. Beatrice Dawson, one of the most attractive young women in Mount Vernon, N. Y. and a bride of a day, is confined to The friends of Rice, the burglar, have | the home of her father in Chester Hill in that city. Mrs. Dawson, who is the daughter of Hugh L. Reavy, a York lawyer, was married on Wednes-day night to William T. Dawson, a brought up from St. Vincent de member of the firm of Dawson & Paul to give evidence in the case, told Archer, the builders of the criminal Governor Vansant that he recognized a man walking on the jail flats as a ding took place in the Church of the man who had visited Rice in the Chi- Ascension on Chester Hill, and was one of the largest Mount Vernon has seen this season. After the ceremony and a reception at the home of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Dawson, amid a shower of rice, set out for a wedding tour to Niagara Falls and the Great Lakes.

They expected to be gone a month. The relatives were greatly surprised yesterday when they received a tele gram from the bridegroom summoning them to a New York hotel at once When the relatives of the couple arrived in New York they found the bride in bed wuth a burning fever. She had been taken from the hotel to the home of a relative, and was being attended by which began at four yesterday after-noon, has continued, and at 1 o'clock age, and putting his bride into it, he brought her to the Grand Central sta-Mount Vernon. her temperature was 102. She had been ill with the disease several days and her husband advised her not to go on with the wedding, but she had sent out 700 invitations, and declared that she would not disappoint the guests. The young bride is an attractive blonde. Many people in the church noticed that during the ceremony her cheeks were rosier than usual. They attributed the color to the excitement of the occasion.

The bride continued to ignore her illness until she reached New York, and then she broke down completely and revealed to her husband her true condition. The bride's father told sympathizing friends who called to inquire about her condition, that Mrs. Dawson was pretty sick, but with the aid o good doctors and nurses they hoped she would get well.

As legal evidence photography is growing in constant favor and use. Many times experts have been called to photograph localities where accidents have happened. Some time ago a question of responsibility was settled in court concerning two stamboats which had been in collision. One boat, which had received the blow of the other, had been at once repaired by the owner, but not until a series of photographs had been made unknown to the owner. At the trial some pretty tall swearing took place, when, to the surprise of the witnesses, they were put face to face with the art that cannot lie, photography, and the case went against them. In another case a witness swore that he was turning his horse to the right, when a photograph showed that a deep excavation made it impossible. THE CAMERA AS A DETECTIVE.
