Board of Trade Learns of Efforts to Secure This Privilage.

Negotiations Regarding Establishment of Shipbuilding Yards at Port Stanley.

The annual meeting of the board of trade was held last night, and was fairly-well attended. The members had before them, besides the regular endof-the-year business, many matters of importance to the city, which were considered carefully. The one most immediately important was the question of interchange of cars, a matter which was first brought into prominence by ex-Mayor Rumball, who did everything in his power to solve it in a satisfactory manner. He and Mr. Charles S. Hyman, M.P., worked together in this matter, Mr. Rumball attending to the local part of it, and Mr. Hyman to the eastern end-at Ottawa and Montreal. It has engaged Mr. Hyman's attention during the present session of parliament more probably than any other matter affecting London. He has made several trips to Montreal, and has done everything possible to So far he has been unsuccessful. Gen-Mr. Hays. During the consideration of this subject Mr. J. R. Minhinnick, who also has been actively interesting himself in the solution of this difficulty, said that the only way to get the matter settled one way or the other would be through the Privy Council. The importance of this privilege is so great that every means will be taken to secure it. The board received the letter from J. E. Jacques & Co., owners of the Merchant Line of steamers, which said that unless the line were better patronized its service at Port Stanley would be withdrawn. Mr. Mattinson did not agree that the McClary Company was the only one which sent west-bound freight by this line. He had shipped a large quantity that way last season. Delays were, however, very frequent very aggravating, though and thought, perhaps, the Lake Erie Railroad were as much to blame for these as were the boat people. He thought that the merchants of London should be urged to make as much use as pos-sible of this line, as it was highly important that it should not be discontinued, for its competition was a great assistance in keeping freight rates down. The secretary was instructed to write the Jacques Company that the board was waiting to hear the result of the trial trip. Secretary Nelles reported having written to the village council of Port Stanley and to the Bertram firm of Toronto, who propose erecting a ship-building establishment at one of the ports on Lake Erie. He recommended to the people of Port Stanley the advantages of having the works, and advised the Bertram firm of the splendid facilities at Port Stanley. He received satisfactory answers from both. The council at Port Stanley had opened negotiations with the company. The secretary's action met with much approval from the members of the board. Mr. Paul Jarvis, of the Toronto Board of Trade, wrote, that the approaching conference of the colonial to be held in London, England, being deemed an exceptional opportunity for the presentation of many questions of great importance to Canada, which waiting for action, the board had decided to invite representatives from sister boards of trade throughout the Dominion to a conference to be held in Toronto on the 4th and 5th of June, and, if necessary, the 6th. The resolutions adopted at this conference will be submitted to Sir Wilfrid Laurier prior to his departure. Among the questions instanced as deserving the consideration of the conference were cited the following: Trade relations within the empire; transportation; defense; postal and telegraph communi cation: the recent action of the imperial government whereby a duty has been levied upon wheat and its products, without preference to the colonies

The value of such action was recognized, and it was felt that this was a very important matter, and President Hunt and Mr. James Mattinson were appointed to attend the conference. The resolutions to be forwarded will be ully discussed at the next meeting of the board. Suggestions as to suitable topics for consideration at this meeting will be welcomed. A letter from the deputy minister of trade and commerce informed the board that the department could see no necessity for an inspector of grain at London or at Chatham. The Nelson (B. C.) Board of Trade asked the board to assist them in obtaining the imposition of a higher duty on imported lead. This letter, and one from the London (England) Chamber of Commerce, in which Canadian organizations were urged to press for the enactment of a Dominion insolvency law, were referred to the council to consider and report. The resignations from the board of Ald. McMechan and Mr. J. S. Pearce Graduates Presented With Diploma were accepted. Mr. Mattinson announced that the

On the platform were seated Moorhouse, dean of the university faculty; Bishop Baldwin, Rev. Canon Dann, Dr. W. R. Waugh, Principal John Dearness, Provost James and Dr. R. Ferguson. The platform was artistically set with palms and flowers. After prayer by Canon Dann, Bishop Baldwin made a short opening address. He spoke of the profound regard in which he held the medical profession, because of the labor that medical men spend upon the investigation of disease, because of the blessed results that have followed their years of patient toil, and because he looked upon Young Doctors Will Seek New the profession as the handmaid of true religion, and as one of the best products of Christianity.

Bishop Baldwin was interrupted in his later remarks by the students' pleasantries, so much so that he brought them to an abrupt close by wishing the faculty, the college and the graduates every success.

Mr. Percy H. Tom, of Goderich, was the class's valedictorian. In his address he referred to the kindly aid the facul-ty extended toward the graduates throughout this course. Dr. Ferguson, who replied on behalf of the college faculty,, congratulated the graduates on their success. Taking for his text the solemn oath they were about to subscribe to, he drew from it two of the following four, who stood the three essential duties of the physician's life, to honor his alma mater, to do all in his power for the alleviation of suffering and the cure of disease, and to preserve inviolate the confidences and secrets of his patients. These obligations, though solemn and far-reaching, imposed no restriction on the man who meant to practice his profession honorably and worthily. The students would remember their alma mater's honor was in their keeping. Their success in life was her pride, their failure of disgrace was her dishonor. Their chosen calling, while full of trials and hardships, was the noblest on earth, and one to which was paid the greatest debt of gratitude. In conclusion he thanked the graduates for their zealous pursuance of their studies, and assured them that they carried with them their alma mater's

Dr. Moorhouse announced that the faculty had conferred the degree of M. D. upon Messrs. Morrow and Barnes, who would have been members of the graduating class had they not gone to South Africa. Pte. duates and students, and though frequently interrupted by the merry students, he had an answer ready every time. He did not hesitate to speak plainly to the students as to the need for their cultivation of the quality of silence. Speaking to the graduates, he dilated on the force of public opinion, and urged them, as important members of their community to throw their influence on the side of right. Public opinion was after all the real ruler of men and people. "I do not believe in making good by law, and I do not believe in prohibition of any kind," was one of Canon Dann's statements.
