"LITTLE DARLING"

"LITTLE DAISY"

HOSIERY FOR INFANTS AND CHILDREN

Baby Knows the Difference

To baby's delicate skin there is as much difference between "Little Darling" stockings and the ordinary kind as there is between sackcloth and satin!

Carefully knitted of the softest, daintiest, Australian lamb's wool, and colored with fast, sanitary dyes, "Little Darling" and "Little Daisy" Hosiery makes your children look prettier than ever.

If baby is irritable, find out if the trouble lies in his stockings—it often does!

"LITTLE DARLING"—Has silken heel and toe. All sizes for infants up to seven years old.

"LITTLE DAISY"—Reinforced heel and toe. All sizes for children under twelve.

COLORS—Pink, Sky Blue, Cardinal, Black, Tan and Cream.

Your dealer can supply you. Cost no more than inferior kinds. Look for the "Sunshine" Trade Mark on the ticket.

of fresh air and such work as gardening and the care of fowl. This being the case, Mrs. Huestis' warning to mothers of country girls was especially timely. Let me warn any of you mothers from the country of the danger of sending your daughters to the city without knowing of the boarding-house to which she will go."

It's hot weather, I know, but do smile at these jokes, and you'll forget about the heat for at least a minute.

Mrs. Frouman—Our Willie got "meritorious commendation" at school last week.

Mrs. O'Bull—Well, well! Ain't it awful the number of strange diseases that's ketching by some children!

A little girl was asked to define a frog. "A frog," she said, "with childish volubility." This is a great big green bug, with its mouth always open, and it's always standing up in front and sitting down behind."

Problems of the Fair Sex Solved by Cynthia Grey

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on the right side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a limited time, as all letters have to be answered in turn as they are received.]

What Is a Fish?
Dear Miss Grey—Will you kindly inform me through "The Advertiser" under what class a fish comes? Is it an animal? Trusting to see this in print soon, as ever,
CONSTANT TORONTO READER.

A.—Webster defines a fish as being an animal.

Who Knows?
Dear Miss Grey—I read in your column some time ago, I think, where a lady sent some money to England for a treatment and did not hear from them up to the time she had written to you. Will this lady please tell me through your column if it was the Venus Carnis treatment she sent for, and if she received it, is it a successful treatment, as I was thinking of sending for myself, or did she ever hear tell of her mother's? Will she please oblige me by answering as soon as possible.
ANXIOUS.

Sunday, Aug. 18.
Dear Miss Grey—Aug. 18 of this year (1912) came on Sunday. Will you please answer in your column of questions and valuable answers where the 18th of August came on Sunday before. How many years ago, I mean. Have enjoyed your answers very much on previous occasions. Thanking you in advance, SUBSCRIBER.

A.—Aug. 18 came on Sunday in 1907, 1901, and 1895. I did not attempt to go back farther than that year. Thanks for your appreciative remarks.

Wearing Mother's Ring.
Dear Miss Grey—I am 13 years old. My mother died lately. She left me her watch and chain and wedding ring. Father will not wear the ring. I wear it when I go out, and a friend has told me it is not proper for me to wear it until I am 18 or 20 years old. Will you kindly advise me if she is right or not, at your earliest convenience? Yours truly,
A.—I think your friend is right, my dear. Best put the ring in a secure place for a few years, for you will appreciate its possession all the more after a while.

Recipes For Madge.
Dear Miss Grey—Would you please give me a recipe for cucumber catsup, also for pickling butter beans, as soon as possible. Thanking you for your past kindness also. Hoping to see this soon.
MADGE.

A.—1. Grate the cucumbers, drain them in a colander, and for each quart allow two cups vinegar, 4 tablespoons of grated horseradish, 2 teaspoons of salt, and half a teaspoon cayenne pepper. Bottle without cooking and seal. Some cooks cover with vinegar alone, and others add one large onion, chopped very fine.
2. String the beans and boil until tender, putting a little salt in the water; then drain in a colander, and when cold put into jars; add 1 tablespoon of horseradish, sprinkle with cayenne pepper lightly, and cover with good cider vinegar.

THE BOLERO AGAIN.

In the Woman's Building at the Toronto Exhibition this week some extremely interesting talks have been given to the visitors by leaders of various women's organizations. Upon one afternoon a large number gathered to hear of the work done by the Daughters of the Empire, as told by three of that order's most energetic members. Since its formation in Montreal in 1909 this order has been closely allied with much patriotic and philanthropic work. The erection of a beautiful bronze bust and drinking fountain in Brockville, in memory of Sir Isaac Brock, is but one of many such tokens provided for those who have given their lives in the service of the empire. This society is also particularly interested in the Island Hospital for Sick Children, where some two hundred children have been cared for during the summer. On Wednesday afternoon the National Council of Women was represented by Mrs. Huestis, president of Toronto Local Council. Among other things the National Council are agitating for prison farms for women, where the women convicts may gain the benefit

This dress has a plain ecru foundation with a gathered overskirt of gray chiffon. The bolero makes no attempt to match these colors, it being of king blue satin with white facings and silver buttons, with heavy blue silk tassels at the corners.

The white lace scarf is topped by a collar made of the ecru, covered with the gray chiffon.

A Useful Table

Here are a few rules for boiling meats, etc.:
Corned beef takes three to five hours.
Chicken requires ten minutes to each pound, depending on the age of the chicken.
Hard boiled eggs, fifteen minutes.
Soft boiled eggs, three and one-half minutes.
Fish—cod, halibut—twenty minutes for each pound.
Whole fish, six to ten minutes for each pound.
Ham, five hours.
Mutton, from three to five hours.
Oysters, until they come to a boil.
Tongue, three to four hours.
Veal, eighteen to twenty minutes per pound.

Sweet Cucumber Pickles

Select cucumbers of uniform size and not too large. The small cucumbers make the best and prettiest pickles. Reject all that are not perfect. Pack in a stone jar laying salt by the handful between the layers. Cover the top layer out of sight with salt. Then fill the jar with cold water and cover with a small saucer or plate of the right size to fit within the mouth of the jar, and lay a clean stone upon the plate. This is to keep the cucumbers under the brine. Leave them there for a fortnight at least. A month would stir up the brine from the bottom. It should be strong enough to float a fresh egg if dropped into it.

You may add fresh cucumbers from the garden every day, if more convenient, than to put up all at once. When you are ready to put them through the last processes, throw away the brine and examine the cucumbers carefully. If you find one that is specked or soft, do not let it go into the pickle. Lay the selected in cold fresh water and leave them there for 24 hours. Drain off the water, fill the jar with fresh water, and leave for another day and night.

Now line a preserving kettle with vine leaves (green and clean) and pack in the cucumbers, scattering a teaspoonful of powdered alum over each layer. Cover with three thicknesses of vine leaves and pour in cold water enough to cover all. Cover the whole with a close lid and simmer over a slow fire for four hours, not letting it boil once in all that time, but keeping the contents scalding hot.

By now the cucumbers should be of a fine green and tender, but not broken. Take from the kettle and drop immediately into cold water. Let them stay in this while you prepare the vinegar for pickling them. To each quart add an even cupful of sugar, a dozen whole black peppers, and half a dozen whole cloves, with half a dozen blades of mace. Boil all together for five minutes, covered, to keep in the strength. Drain the water from the cucumbers, pack into a stout stone jar, and pour the scalding spiced vinegar over them.

Two days later drain off the vinegar, without disturbing the cucumbers, and just bring to a bubbling boil. Pour it scalding hot over the cucumbers, and fit on the cover. Repeat the scalding three times within the fortnight, allowing several days between the processes. Then cover with a close lid and the waxed paper or cloth over the

To Renew Fine Lace

Here is a recipe for cleansing laces which an old lace-maker who has woven many a gossamer web for the great connoisseur and lover of laces, Madame Modjeska, gave to her pupil and patron. Spread the lace out on paper. Cover with calcined magnesite, place another paper over it and put away between the leaves of a book for two or three days. Then all it needs is a shower of water to scatter the powder and its mother of pearl as fresh and clean as when first woven.

Amber Buttons for Autumn

Amber buttons and buckles are to be much used on gowns and coats in the autumn and winter. There are already being shown in some of the fashionable shops amber buttons in many different shapes and sizes. Small round buttons in this color are most attractive. There are also elliptical shaped buttons in two sizes. To use with the amber buttons there are amber buckles. Other buttons are set with small jewels. The buckles also have the jewel setting. The jewel is chosen to match the gown in color and the amber frame must, of course, contrast prettily. Huge buttons for use on coats are mother of pearl in the centre and have square amber frames. Jet buttons are also to be much used this season.

Reindeer Skin Purses

Made of reindeer skin are many of the new purses shown in one of the leather goods shops. The purses have the hand strap and are lined with moire. Inside there is a tiny change purse, a powder case and a handkerchief pocket. The particularly attractive feature of these purses is the variety of exquisite shades in which they are to be had. There is scarcely one of the subtle new shades fashionable this season which may not be matched in these purses. They come in Manhattan red, mauve, deep violet, crushed strawberry, Hudson green, Eriol blue and a host of other lovely shades. The purse is fastened with an ornament in enamel to match the color of the leather.

LADY HAMILTON, the celebrated English beauty, who captured the heart and swayed the later life of Lord Nelson, had a charming complexion, which the poets of her day compared to a delicately-tinted rose in full bloom. It is now known that this beautiful woman exercised the greatest care over her complexion, treating her skin with a preparation of almonds and roses. The formula was a well-guarded secret for long, but anyone may obtain the lotion now at most drug stores. It is sold under the name of Seely's Almondrose.

Billie Burke

ON THE STAGE AS A VOCATION.

[BY BILLIE BURKE.]

FIRST WOMAN—For the girl who has talent, the stage offers a splendid opportunity.

A number of young persons, both men and women, have written me asking for advice about going on the stage. While I cannot answer these letters except in a general way through the papers, I would like to say that for the young woman who has talent, the stage today offers great possibilities; but here's the rub. One must be sure one has talent.

The path to stardom is strewn with blighted ambition and broken hearts. A girl sees her favorite actress on the stage wearing beautiful clothes, having a nice part, and gaining vociferous applause, and it is very natural that she should think that she would like to have such an easy place in life. She cannot know of the discouragements, the hard work, and the many disappointments that this actress has gone through before she reached her place.

Every year thousands of girls go on the stage in the different companies in England and in America, and out of the thousands probably one will reach the top. If you have health, energy and the right kind of stamina to withstand not only the temptations that come to every woman who goes out in the world to work, but the discouragements that come perhaps thicker and faster to the would-be actress than to the girl in any other employment, then I for one would not discourage you. If, however, you think only of the adulation, the lights, the flowers, and the notoriety which may come to you, you had better stay away.

A famous actress, when asked what success in her profession meant, said: "Hard work, and many tears." It is the one profession where the thing that you succeed in counts little.

An actor friend of mine said to me recently—and he is a man well up in his profession—"I sometimes think I will hire out in a butcher shop. After learning once to cut beef well, I would probably be able to cut it well ever after. But having acted one part successfully, I must begin a totally different manner on the next part which I secure—and there is always the dreadful feeling on first night that the dear public will turn down its thumbs."

However, the stage is the only place where a WOMAN can get the same amount of money for the same kind of work in the field of business or art today.

Indeed, a leading woman in a high-class company today gets more money than the leading man of that company.

I always feel, though, when anyone comes to me and asks how they shall go on the stage that they will not succeed, because the temperament which asks advice in this matter is not the temperament that is independent enough to work out its own success.

Sincerity is perhaps the greatest asset of the actor, and after that comes observation. But one must add to these splendid health and unbounded energy. It does not matter so much if one have beauty; in fact, I am not sure that great beauty is not a detriment. The greatest actresses upon the stage today are not beautiful women.

JUST ONE LAST WORD—To you who are thinking of going on the stage, let Billie Burke whisper: "An actress' life is not all cakes and ale." And please don't write me personal letters asking advice on stage ambitions.

Billie Burke
