COUNTY COURT.

The County Court and General Sessions of the Peace opened on Tuesday, June 12th, at one p. m., before His Honor Judge McWatt, there being 13 grand jurors, and 32 petit jurors in attendance. Four petit jurors failed to answer to their names and a fine of $5 was imposed on one, for whom there was no excuse given.

The jurisdiction of the county court has been so far encroached upon by the extension of the jurisdiction of division courts, and the costs of litigation in the county court are so heavy in proportion to the sums involved in the disputes over which it has jurisdiction that in any well-considered plan of law reform some radical change must be made.

Ther v. McWhitty, was an action for the price of a treadmill supplied by the plaintiffs, who were manufacturers of agricultural implements at Watford, to the defendant, who is a farmer living about sixty miles from Ottawa. The defence was that the machine would not work, and could not be made to work, and was consequently useless. There was considerable difference of opinion amongst the witnesses as to some of the details of setting up and testing the machine, but it did not seem to be disputed that it had not been made to work. The plaintiffs relied on an ironclad contract contained in the order signed by the defendant when he bought, which, they contended, obliged the buyer to immediately notify the agent and maker in writing, if the machine did not work properly, to give all necessary assistance in making it work. It did not then give proper service it was to be returned and a new machine supplied. Failure to give notice in writing or to immediately return the machine, it was contended, left the purchaser legally liable to pay for the machine, even if worthless.

This form of order is now very common amongst manufacturers. The defendant had not returned the machine. Judge MacWatt struck out the jury, and tried the case himself. Judgment was reserved. Mr. Cowan is the plaintiff; Mr. Logan for the defendant.

Weston v. Douglas.—Mrs. Weston, a Wyoming widow, had nursed Mrs. Robertson during her last illness, in addition to acting as housekeeper, for which service she was paid $2.50 weekly. After Mrs. Robertson's death she claimed from the executor, Mr. Wm. Douglas, of Camlachie, a further sum of $150.00, being at the rate of $10 additional per week under an alleged agreement with the testatrix to pay that sum. His Honor again struck out the jury. There was no corroboration of the evidence of the plaintiff, and the alleged agreement, and her claim failed. The judge remarked that, without such corroboration, the executors would not be justified in paying, and that he did quite right to contest the claim. He thought, however, that the $2.50 per week which Mrs. Robertson had regularly paid the plaintiff, was not sufficient compensation, and allowed her $40.50 additional wages, and the division court costs. The action was one which should should have been brought in a division court, and the judge intimated that, but for the poverty of the plaintiff, he would have ordered her to pay the costs of the defendant on the county court scale. Mr. LeSueur for plaintiff; Mr. Weir for the defendant.

Burgess v. Peters occupied the court most of Wednesday. The plaintiff sued the defendant for $150 as commission on the sale of a farm for defendant. The latter contended that the sale had not been made through the exertions of the plaintiff, and that he had not, for that reason, earned a commission. The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff, and fixed the commission at $18.00, which would also give county court costs to the plaintiff. Mr. Towers for the plaintiff; Mr. LeSueur for the defendant.

Strangway v. Brydges.—The plaintiff claimed of the defendant damages for the failure of the latter to properly till and manage a farm upon which he was the plaintiff's tenant. This farm is in the 10th concession of Enniskillen, at the Brooke townline. The plaintiff was to receive one-half of the crops as his rent. He contended that, contrary to the terms of the lease, the tenant had failed to sow a large part of the land or to grow any crop on it last year; that he had put in the seed too late in the season to grow a crop; that he had neglected to cut the hay or harvest the grain in good time, and that they were wasted, and that the farm had been badly mismanaged. The defendant counterclaimed for an equally formidable list of sins of the plaintiff. Just before the case was called the parties arranged a settlement of the matters in dispute. Mr. Weir and Mr. F. W. Wilson, of Petrolia, for the plaintiff; Mr. Cowan for defendant.

A Dehorned Dilemma.

A former resident of Lambton, now living in Saskatchewan, had an experience recently that is not likely to escape his memory for many moons. He was driving a herd of steers from one ranch to another, and came to a turn in a small river, which, by crossing would save him a tramp of two or three miles. He decided to drive the cattle across the stream, and swim over himself. Removing his garments he bound them firmly to the horns of the boss steer. The cattle crossed in safety and he swam across after them. The steers felt so good after their plunge in the drink that they decided to have a little frolic and started for home at a gallop, the leader setting a merry pace, the trousers and underwear of the driver fluttering from his horns like the pennant of a yacht in a stiff breeze. Here was a pretty how do you do. Without raiment enough to flag a landcar, a chilly prairie wind fanning his unprotected frame, and the key to his suit case lost, he felt his position keenly. By crawling through the tall grass, and availing himself of the protection of a friendly fence he managed to reach a hay stack near his home, and his loud cries for assistance attracted the attention of his wife. That good lady was naturally very much alarmed, as the steers had arrived some time in advance, and when she saw her husband's garments dangling from the horns of the leader of the herd, she came to the conclusion that he had been gored to death, and set out to find the mangled remains. Her feelings when she observed the undraped form of a man peaking around the corner of the stack, and howling like a dervish can be better imagined than described, and it was some time before she could realize the situation and come to his rescue with a table cover and a pair of gum boots. Making a flying switch for the house he seized his trusty rifle. There was a sharp crack, a dead steer, and fresh beef at the ranch for the next two weeks.

SUMMER FOG.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the Best Tonic for Summer.

The long hot summer thins the blood, and leaves you weary, worn and wretched. Nothing can cure thee summer fog except Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—because they actually make new blood and thus strengthen every organ and every tissue in the body. But Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make red blood, and nothing but good, pure rich red blood can brace you to stand the summer. That is why you should take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now. Mr. W. J. Nortolk, White Horse, Yukon Territory, says: "I am thirty-nine years of age and have been an athlete who scarcely knew the meaning of illness. Last year, however, my health gave way. I became nervous, did not sleep well and grew as weak as a kitten. It seemed as though I was completely worn out. I tried several so-called tonics, but it was only a waste of money, for they did me no good. Finally I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they put me on my feet again, and gave me new health and strength."

Every weak and easily tired man and woman will find new health, new strength and new energy through a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They cure all blood and nerve diseases like anaemia, nervous exhaustion, headaches and backaches, indigestion, neuralgia, rheumatism and the special ailments that afflict most growing girls and women of mature years. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Western Fever.

[Hamilton Times.] The public school inspector of East Middlesex reports 78 fever pupils on the roll than in 1904. That kind of thing is not peculiar to Middlesex. The people have families bent on farming week to week and return for their sons. There is, too, a tendency to seek the cities, and in two ways the rural districts are drained of their young. This is to be regretted, from a Provincial point of view, but it is not to be doubted that a liberal admixture of Ontario people in the West will prove beneficial to that part and in the end to the Dominion. But there are far worse places than Ontario.

Sarna grocers close their stores Wednesday afternoons during July and August.

TORONTO.

Toronto, June 19.—The run at the City Cattle Market to-day was 60 loads, with 1,155 head of cattle, 400 sheep and lambs, 400 hogs and 292 calves.

While higher prices were paid to-day at the City Cattle Market for choice and fair to good cattle, still trade on the whole was slower and more draggy than it has been for some time. The reason for this state of affairs was that the good cattle, the well-finished stall fed export cattle especially, were very scarce and much in demand, consequently the higher prices than last week for the same class of cattle. On the other hand there is this week a rather heavy delivery of grass cattle, many of them, as usual, in very poor condition. For this kind of stuff there is a poor demand and prices are, therefore, lower. The demand for fat cow beef, which for some weeks past prices for this class of stock away up, has now practically disappeared, and prices are down from 3c to 3½c per pound. This lower range of prices, however, does not apply to the better class of cattle, for one or two choice loads of export steers sold to-day at $5.20 to $5.30. A small lot of fancy butcher heifers, about half a load, and weighing about 1,000 pounds, was sold by Crawford & Co. at $5 10, a pretty good evidence that for choice quality cattle the market is as firm as ever it was this season. There is also a good demand for good quality stockers and feeders. The scrub stock is not wanted. There is also an over-supply of milch cows, and none but choicest quality are in demand.

The sheep market is steady; spring lambs firm.
