THE FIND

It was a summer morning, Old Gaspar's work was done. (For workmen only toiled four hours in nineteen thirty-one). And by him sported on the green His little grandchild Geraldine.

She saw her brother Cyrus K. Dig something black and round From out a heap of broken bricks Which lay upon the ground. He came to ask what he had found, That was so shiny smooth and round.

Old Gaspar took it from the boy Who stood expectant by, And then the old man shook his head And heaved a mighty sigh.

"It is a bottle, dear," said he "From Lafatt's famous Brewery."

"I often find them here," he said, Giving the cork a pull; "But," here he heaved another sigh, "I never find them full!

Our house is on the site, you see Of Lafatt's famous Brewery."

"Now tell us all about it, please," Young Cyrus K. he cries, And little Geraldine looks up With wonder in her eyes.

"Yes, tell us Grandpa, why and how They never use such bottles now."

"I do not know," old Gaspar sighed, "I was never very clear; I only know the government Skipped all the sale of beer. And that is why, of course," said he They closed the famous Brewery."

"My father kept 'The Blenheim,' but As beer could not be had, And wine and whiskey, too, were barred.

Affairs got pretty bad; So with his wife and child he fled, And took to selling milk instead."

"They say it was a shocking sight When first the land went dry; And strong men wept, who n'er before Had been inclined to cry.

"I wept myself, when first," said he "They closed this famous Brewery."

"The Temperance folk were greatly pleased, They had tried for many years." "Why, 'twas a wicked thing to do," Cried Cyrus K. in tears.

"Nay, nay, my little lad," said he They love to close a Brewery."

"And many people praised them, too, But many thought it mean."

"And, were you pleased, dear Grand-papa?"

Asked little Geraldine.

"Well, as to that, I wish," said he "This place was still a Brewery."

It has Many Qualities.—The man who possesses a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is armed against many ills. It will relieve a cough, break a cold, prevent sore throat; it will reduce the swelling from a sprain, relieve the most persistent sores and will speedily head cuts and contusions. It is a medicine chest in itself, and can be got for a quarter of a dollar.

ROSE TO FAME THEN SANK TO OBSCURITY

The death has just taken place at Sheffield, Eng., of Mr. Joseph Jonas one-time Lord Mayor of the city, and for over fifty years one of her most enterprising citizens. The story of how Mr. Jonas rose to fame, and then sank to comparative obscurity, was one of the tragic incidents connected with the prosecution of the great war.

Mr. Jonas was a native of Bingen on the Rhine, but at the age of 21 he left his own country and reached Sheffield, where he engaged in the steel trade. His earliest start was confined to the employment of a couple of men, but the firm grew by leaps and bounds, and in 1892 was converted into a limited liability company, under the name of Jonas and Colver, Limited. Mr. Jonas, meanwhile, had engaged actively in civil life, and in 1906 he received the honor of knighthood when the late King Edward opened the new university buildings at Sheffield. Nobody in the great Yorkshire city of steel and cutlery was more respected and liked. His eclipse was as sudden as it was dramatic.

In the last year of the war he was prosecuted for disclosing to the enemy information prejudicial to the state. The information which he was alleged to have so furnished related to some rifle works which another British firm was establishing. The defence put forward was that the information was merely in answer to an ordinary trade inquiry; a verdict of acquittal was returned, and the presiding judge pointed out that the finding adjudged Jonas guiltless of any intention to offend against the interest or safety of the state. A heavy fine was inflicted, and in the course of a few weeks it was announced that the King had revoked his knighthood. His name was also removed from the Commission of Justices of the Peace. An attempt to obtain a revocation of his certificate of naturalization, granted over forty years previously, failed, the Home Office not being satisfied that he had shown himself disaffected or disloyal.

The great majority of people in the town of his adoption, where he had built up so great a business, showed the keenest sympathy with him, and referred to him as "Sir Joseph" to the end. For his own part, Mr. Jonas accepted his heavy punishment calmly, and was much cheered by the kindly feeling shown towards him.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cleford of Adelaide village was the scene of a happy event Monday, October 17, when their children, grandchildren and nearest relatives assembled to celebrate the 50th anniversary of their wedding. After a wedding dinner was served the host and hostess were presented with a gold-headed cane and a gold-headed umbrella, set with pearls by their children, and dainty pieces of cut glass and a purse of gold from near relatives. An address was read by their son, George of St. Thomas, while the presentation was made by three granddaughters, Helen Kelley of London, Clara George of Glenora and Mary Edith Underday of Peterboro.

The afternoon and evening were spent in merriment and social intercourse.

GLARING HEADLIGHTS CAUSE AUTO ACCIDENT

Sarnia, Oct. 24.—As the result of an automobile accident tonight, Mrs. W. H. Farris of 429 Palmerston street had her left arm broken, and was badly bruised, necessitating her admittance to the Sarnia Hospital. Mr. Farris himself was badly bruised as also was his daughter Helen, who with the 7-year-old son, Wilfred made up the party travelling in Mr. Farris' car. The party were proceeding to Forest between 8 and 9 o'clock when they met a large car coming from the opposite direction on the 10th line of Plympton Township. The lights of the approaching car were turned on full, and in the glare Mr. Farris was unable to see the road clearly, and just as the other car passed, at a great speed, his car struck the ditch and overturned. The party were pinned under the car with exception of the little boy, and Mr. Farris was rendered unconscious. The screams of the boy attracted attention from a nearby farmhouse, and help was soon forthcoming, and the car was lifted and the injured people extricated.

Maybe the ol' swimmin' hole is dried up—maybe it has become the lily pond in a beautiful park. Anyway it's the center of things around which your memories gather. And your Home Town Paper still prints the news of the ol' swimmin' hole and the folks up and down the street.

CLEARING OUT TUBERCULOSIS IN CATTLE

The accredited herd system put in operation two years ago by the Health of Animals Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa has been well received by the stock men of the country. It is confined to pure bred cattle and is intended to rid as rapidly as possible the disease of tuberculosis from Canadian herds. Figures given out by the Veterinary Director General show that thirty-six herds had up to October 1, been fully accredited. The breeds represented are the Ayrshire, Holstein, Jersey, Shorthorn and Aberdeen Angus, the dairy breeds predominating. The accredited herds are widely distributed. Nova Scotia has 1; Quebec 9; Ontario 10; Manitoba 2; Saskatchewan 4 and British Columbia 10.

Besides the herds which have been fully accredited there are at present 558 herds which have been tested once or more in process of accreditation, and 54 herds awaiting the first test, making a total of 648 herds. As the herds in this lot fulfill the necessary conditions, they become fully accredited. The Inspectors of the Health of Animals Branch are making as rapid progress as is possible under the circumstances, taking into consideration the limited number of men engaged in the work and the great importance of doing the testing carefully and accurately rather than rapidly.

The reactors are always removed from the herd at once and usually are immediately slaughtered under veterinary supervision. Applications for tests have been coming in faster than they could be dealt with. A waiting list has therefore been formed and as soon as circumstances permit the herds in this list will be tested, taking them as far as possible in the order in which applications have been received.
