

A Question of Coal Capacity

Just three years ago we started to preach the gospel of deep firepot Hot Water Boilers. We didn't refer to any ancient and historic lineage, because it was our firm conviction that the old shallow firepot man was all wrong.

We have sold a good many hundred Boilers since then, and our conviction is firmer than ever. The doctrine has even carried conviction to the heart of the antiquated old type Boiler maker.

THE SAFFORD BOILER

stands to-day as the only Hot Water Heating Boiler that has coal-carrying capacity sufficient to maintain, under proper combustion, the maximum temperature for eight hours on one firing.

Note the large self-cleaning flue surfaces

There are many other features. Write us to-day ; we will be glad to show you.
