The oldest bank notes are the "flying money" or "convenient money" first issued in China, 2697 B.C. Originally, these notes were issued by the treasury, but experience dictated a change to the system of banks under government inspection and control. The early Chinese "greenbacks" were in all essentials similar to the modern bank notes. The notes were printed in blue ink on paper made from the fibre of mulberry tree. A Chinese bank note issued in 1359 B.C. is said to be preserved in the Asiatic museum at St. Petersburg.—Boston Journal of Commerce.
