

with e-
causes
nature

gence,
cayed,
rapid-
e con-
learn,

e stay-
he ab-
pplyed
ul and
which
diseas-
of ser-
e con-

ne pu-
inates
e foul
of our
t con-
. Are

we not all links in the great chain of society, some more, some less important, but each upheld by others throughout the confederate whole? In whatever situation we are placed, our greater or less degree of happiness must be derived from ourselves.

The veil of mystery which still hangs over Dentistry, renders it not only conjectural, but even a suspicious art. This has been long ago removed from the other sciences, which induces many to believe that Dentistry is a mere trick, and that it will not bear a fair and candid examination. Dentistry, however, needs only to be better known, in order to secure the general esteem of mankind. Its precepts are such