Butterfly Day would have been a good title for Saturday at the exhibition grounds. Sun and air were of the pleasantest and flocks and flights of the great gaudy butterflies known popularly as "King Butterflies," and to science by the dignified style of Danaus Archippus, floated and soared about in every direction.

Then the artists, who are surely a gaily colored race, were the guests at the directors' luncheon, along with the traveling Apollos, the general travelers. Besides this, the York Pioneers turned out in force, with all their lady friends.

Although the effect was of the gayest and up to five o'clock all records were broken and the promise for the evening was beyond the realization of the afternoon.

Manager Orr stated to the World that the attendance at the fair on Saturday numbered about 80,000.

"It's the largest in exhibition history on a Saturday," he said. "The attendance for the first week is about 250,000, and it can be said to be the most satisfactory first week that has been known to the fair. On only one day, the opening, was there a decrease, which falling off is to be readily accounted for. Everything is running as smoothly as on a second week."

Pioneers Gathered.

There must have been from 250 to 300 present at the Pioneers' gathering round the old log hut in the southwest corner of the grounds Saturday noon. The venerable appearance of many of the members of the York Pioneers Association justified the expectation of strange tales and these were abundantly forthcoming. Men of 95 told how they saw 100 gun vessels of war on the lakes in the campaign of 1812—these were the first line of defence. Stories of the settlement of Toronto and the neighborhood were related, and relics and memorabilia of that time discussed.

M. Moyer of Waterloo raised the question how far the home district extended and if Waterloo was near enough to warrant a claim to Toronto Pioneership. Mr. Moyer offered a number of interesting relics for preservation in the building, and the society has agreed to take them up.

It is the expectation of the members to have a building 200 feet long put up for next year.

Enclose the Cabin.

Another proposal is to roof the old log cabin, so as to preserve it from the weather. It contains many of the great men of Toronto, including chairs belonging to Governor Simcoe and William Lyon Mackenzie.

The annual meeting of the association reported a good condition of the finances with $250 on hand. William Rennie, president of the club, was present. Rev. H. S. Matthews, secretary, attended to his duties. The society has met for 27 years at the log cabin, and they hope to make it more attractive next year.

Three new members were admitted, W. J. Burchard, St. John's, and Henry Swain, 43 Woodlawn-avenue.

Miss Oates, a daughter of the founder of the association, presented a portrait of her father, and her interest and generosity were recognized by a vote of thanks.

Mrs. Arnold Foster, Burley-in-Wharfedale, Yorkshire, of the British Women's Emigration Society, was present. She had sent out 100 men this year to farms in Ontario, and established branch committees in Bradford and Leeds to carry on the work. The expenses of the men sent were met out of Mrs. Foster's own resources.

Mrs. Clark, a grand daughter of Laura Secord, was also present.

Mrs. Jason appeared for an exhibition of the next year of relics and memorabilia of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, author of "The Maple Leaf."

A Wider Scope.

The chairman stated that while the association was of the York Pioneers, it was desired to make it a national affair, and to have other societies affiliated. The list of Canadian cities from which it was for all Canada. Articles from any part of the Dominion, so long as they had a history, were welcome, and they should be prepared to receive them. The benediction, pronounced by Rev. Mr. Matthews, closed the meeting.

The band of the 19th, from St. Catharines, having lined up one of the pioneers marshalled the guests into line.

Now, ladies, fall in line, left foot moving when the band starts to play. To the brisk strain of a quickstep the procession moved off towards the inn room, President Rennie and Lt.-Col. Rogers, Peterboro, leading, followed by Mayor Coatsworth, who had just been admitted a member, and Controller Hubbard. Danny Lamb was generalissimo and kept everything in order.

A substantial meal demonstrated that the pioneer spirit was of an enduring quality, and then the speaking began.

In the Olden Days.

The twenty-eighth anniversary of the raising of the log cabin was the topic of Chairman Rennie's remarks, the drawing of the ox-wagon along King-street on that occasion was referred to, and the passing away of many since that day. On that day there was born to Mr. and Mrs. Chambers. There was much chaffing of the park commissioner that day, and many names were suggested for the baby. A reporter submitted Simon Lorne and that name was adopted. Mr. Chambers had died three years ago.

The royal toast was honored with the national anthem.

Mayor Coatsworth told how his father came to the city in 1851, or 1852 to build a bridge across the Don. He was so pleased with the land that he decided to settle, and all his family since then had been born here.
