FAITH IN HIS AUDIENCES EARNS DUSS POPULARITY

One of Bandmaster's Titles to Recognition is Belief in Musical Instincts of People.

Doubt is often expressed whether the general public appreciate high-class instrumental music. So inveterate is this attitude that it has come to be regarded as beyond question. Yet there is really no ground in nature or reason for it, and the remarkable popularity which has attended the engagement at Hanlan's Point of the Duss Band is sufficient to show its inaccuracy. Not the least of Mr. Duss' titles to recognition—and they are numerous—is his faith in the musical instincts of the mass of the people.

Mr. Duss has been conducting a musical pilgrimage through the United States and Canada for many years. His name is known in all parts of the continent and his career is one of triumphs which are thoroughly deserved. It is a well balanced and thoroughly competent aggregation, containing some of the best solo instrumentalists in the world and under the throct control of a remarkably original and sympathetic conductor of classical and modern music. Mr. Duss, as is natural, is an enthusiast, but what is uncommon in his walk of life is that personally he is one of the most modest and unassuming of men. But he has formed his own ideal of musical interpretation and carries it out with a firmness which is not only commendable but also a source of inspiration to his followers.

Mr. Duss believes that the most improvement accomplished in musical interpretation should be accompanied by a change in the method of rendering of the great masterpieces whose interpretations were formerly controlled by the imperfections of the earlier instrumentalists. Careful study has convinced him that the opening is narrow, and every bill of the sort presented in Lombard-street is scrutinized. Applications for financing the trade and enterprise of America in particular have been welcomed a year ago, which were welcomed only as a matter of course.

It is evidently believed that the zenith of the trade movement has been reached. All financial houses are chiefly concerned in turning their resources into liquid form against the possibility of mercantile or financial difficulties during the process of credit contraction.

It is the universality of complaint in these directions, from every monetary centre, which aggravates the position. Several firms, in this market and in markets outside of England, are in an embarrassed position, but actual failures of any importance will probably be averted. The largest of the English firms in question has had a hand in this week's heavy liquidation of American securities. The house is quite wealthy, but has had to meet great losses.

Thursday's advance in the Bank of England rate to 4 1/2 per cent, was primarily due to your market's position and to knowledge that a high bank rate, in order to be effective, must be imposed before the autumn commences. The rise would probably be for the purpose of a fortnight, but for the fact that our own market was threatening to overwhelm the bank with bills at 4 per cent.

Continued liquidation on our side, with a check to the trade movement, is considered not only inevitable but desirable. The financial market's aspect possibly depends on whether your executive can reassure capital.

Although your rate of exchange on London is at present high, a sharp fall is expected in the autumn, for the reason that your genuine trade bills have not been so fully discounted by finance as is usual at this time. Our bank rate is not likely to go higher than the present figure, unless indications point to your taking good from

FOREIGNER ARRESTED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Police Were Busy in Hamilton Saturday—Assault on Mrs. Coghlin.

HAMILTON, Aug. 18.—(Special.)—The police were very busy Saturday night and filled up the cells at No. 3 police station. The most serious charge was laid against John Szemen, a foreigner, who is accused of indecently assaulting Mrs. Coghlin, at the corner of James and Cannon-streets.

John Kerby, 13 Mulberry-street, was taken on the charge of stealing a watch, and Harry Dougherty is accused of stealing some harness from Dr. Cummings. The friends of Michael J. Kevellis, the man who was killed by a G.T.R. engine early Saturday morning, near the corner of Cannon-street and Ferguson-avenue, scold the suggestion that he committed suicide. He was a young Irishman, who came from Inscorthy about seven weeks ago and secured work at the Derings as a woodworker. The crew of the engine say that they saw him on the track previously and warned him off. He wore no boots. An inquest will be held.

Scout Suicide Idea. John Lees, New Philadelphia, Ohio, took to-day at the residence of Thomas Lees, 144 West Main-street. He was 75 years of age and was paying a visit to Hamilton.

The remains of Edward Howell Cleveland, were brought home to-day for burial. He formerly lived in Hamilton. It is rumored that the Hamilton Steamboat Company will buy a new boat next year.

W. H. Midgley, Woodstock, who claims he was looking for a policeman who abused him, was sent down for five days by the magistrate Saturday when he refused to pay a $2 fine.

William Gosney, a farmer, was held up by a highwayman near the high level bridge Saturday morning. The Street Railway is offering a reward of $100 for the men who rotted the cars.

Mrs. Agnes Lewis, Dundas, is suing the Street Railway for damages for injuries and James Lamont is suing the Bank of Hamilton for the death of his son.

The infant daughter of John Cart, who was bitten by a rat about two months ago, died from the effects of the bite Saturday.

George Carey's house, 369 South King and Bay, Hamilton, modified, and is being sold for $25,000. See Billy Carroll's Pipes to-day at the Grand Opera House Cigar Store. Get the Habit—Go to Feders' Life Barber Shop, Fred H. Sharp, Cigars.

CONFUSING SITUATION.
This Week's Disturbances as Seen From London.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The Evening Post has the following special cable from London:

General contraction of credit is the best description of the situation here this week. It is a thorough reaction from last year's eager readiness of London, Paris and Berlin to finance not only their own trade and speculation, but that of other countries, and a severe reaction was inevitable.

The position to-day is a striking antithesis to that of last August. Paris, which a year ago held $25,000,000 of your finance bills, now has none. Berlin, which had continued taking them till recently, has now fairly banged the door in the face of foreign borrowers. London, to repeat the same figure, has not completely closed the door, but the opening is narrow, and every bill of the sort presented in Lombard-street is scrutinized. Applications for financing the trade and enterprise of America in particular have been welcomed a year ago, which were welcomed only as a matter of course.

It is evidently believed that the zenith of the trade movement has been reached. All financial houses are chiefly concerned in turning their resources into liquid form against the possibility of mercantile or financial difficulties during the process of credit contraction.

THE LORDLY MILLIONS.

Difference Between the Passive Dollar and the Enterprising Coin.

The average amount of money on deposit in the Canadian banks is over $400,000,000, or nearly seven times as much as is usually on deposit in the more cumbersome Government Postal Savings Banks. The banks pay investors 3 per cent, while bank stocks do not average more than 5 per cent, to the shareholders on the present market value of the stock.

The manufacturing supremacy of the United States has been due in great part to the enterprise of its money. The savings deposits per capita in this country are smaller, because the men who save money invest it in the more lucrative industrial stocks.

But Canada is waking up to the value of its own resources, and the money now lying in the banks will be put in the channels which have made so many American millionaires. A shoe merchant in the United States who adopted many of the ideas embraced in the system which has done so much for the Slater Shoe Company in Canada, recently sold his good-will value to a new company for $2,500,000. This young man was in business but fifteen years. While clerking for a shoe house, he saw that the secret of success in a commercial country was to build up a direct interest in a well-established concern. That the same shoe system in Canada should be valued at $1,000,000 is an evidence of the relative growth of this country.

The basic idea of the Slater Shoe Company, as set forth in a recent magazine article, was to eliminate the unnecessary costs and sell a shoe at a price that would bring in everybody. With the faith that is earned by good faith, they have so increased their volume of business that they can sell a shoe of nearly as good value as before the cost of leather was advanced.

Exciting Consolation Race. The dinghy dinghy race under the auspices of the Toronto Canoe Club had its exciting features Saturday afternoon. The course was triangular, commencing at the club house on Centre Island, then to Hanlan's and back to the club house. There were five entries and Robinson was the winner. Brown and Duthie's dinghy captured when making the turn at the club house on their third turn. A gasoline launch was sent to their rescue, but owing to the rope of the launch it was impossible to get the dinghy to the club house. A rowboat was then sent out and the crewmen succeeded in bringing both the launch and the dinghy to the club house.

J. K. Fiske. 23 Scott St Lake of Bays.

A district which has come rapidly to the forefront as a tourist resort is the Lake of Bays region, with headquarters at Huntsville. The scenery of this region is distinguished for its ruggedness and the absence of the more rugged aspect of many parts of Northern Ontario. There is a pleasing contrast of dense wooded growth, picked out with the mosaic setting of cultivated farm lands with their varying green and gold tints and shades of growing crops and chocolate-colored fallow, where the land has been reclaimed and transformed from fringing forest to fertile field. There is an entire absence of malaria and hay fever here. The 1145 am. Grand Trunk Express connects at Huntsville with steamers for all points through the lakes, arriving at any destination the same day. Full information and tickets may be obtained at Grand Trunk City Office, north-west corner King and Yonge-streets.
