THE LIBERALS AND THE UNITED STATES.

We notice that Sir Wilfrid Laurier does not wish any consideration from England in the way of preferential trade for a reduction of Canadian duties on English goods. Neither does The Globe. Nor does Mr. John Charlton wish to see an export duty put upon our sawlogs. We have been thinking the matter over very carefully, and the consideration of the conduct of most of the Liberals and of many of their papers leads us to this conclusion, namely, that they were all in favor not many months ago of the great republic to become a part of the United States; that they had an intense regard for American institutions; that they regarded the United States as the natural market for Canada's products, and that their ultimate destiny was to become a part of the great republic to the south.

In other words, they were the champions of everything American.

Now the keynote of preferential trade is that England, in consideration of certain favors to her products by Canada, will on her part put a tax on the food products of the United States, and Australia to enter her markets free of duty. If this were done, our opinion is that it would cost the people of Great Britain nothing; that they would get their food products just as cheap as they get them now, when the United States is on an equality with other supplying countries; but it would, at the same time, deal a most serious blow to the people of the United States. We can imagine nothing that would hit them so hard as such a discrimination against their products, and certainly if it were done they would have nobody to blame but themselves on account of their repeated acts of legislation directed straight against the people of England. To our mind, then, the Liberals see this, but out of respect for their old allies and for the men who were their inspiration in the old commercial union campaign, and out of respect for other favors, they are slow to do them any harm. In fact, we should say that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, The Globe newspaper, Mr. John Charlton, Mr. Hardy and all of that class are determined, if at all possible, to be the champions of Americans in any effort made by this country and in England to reach a working trade arrangement which, while it will benefit us, might injure the people of the United States. While our friends the Liberals have become ultra loyal in many directions, they still feel themselves in duty bound to be in the forefront of the pro-American movement, even if it is against our interests and the interests of the Empire. The cause of the Americans is still safe in the hands of the Continental Unionists, who, while they have in a measure abandoned their program of six years ago, have not determined to abandon their allies.

PRINCE LUIGI'S TRIUMPH.

The Italian Scion of Royalty Has Been at the Top of Mount St. Elias.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 26.—The expedition of Prince Luigi di Savoia to the summit of Mount St. Elias has fixed the name of the mountain. The expedition has also shown that the mountain was taken. The expedition was named a newly-discovered glacier "Colombo."

Performing in the Rain.

Stratford, Ont., Aug. 26.—A numerous company, including Mme. de Navarro (Mary Anderson), Mr. William B. Eddy, and other Americans, are scheduled to-day on the sward in front of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre to witness Augustus Daly's company perform a performance of "As You Like It." The weather was threatening, and the play had scarcely begun when steady rain fell. The actors continued with a grave assumption of unconcern, but the rain fell more heavily until finally all present retired to the theatre, where the performance was finished amid the enthusiastic applause of the audience. The actors, who were there were numerous recalls, and when the play was ended the Mayors presented the company with a bouquet of flowers. A handsome sum was netted for the Shakespeare memorial fund.

Mixed-Up Scuffle.

Last evening about 7.30 two coal cart drivers got into an altercation at Adelaide Street and Spadina Avenue. During the scuffle an expressman drove along and, seeing one of the men getting the worst of it, intervened, using his whip prominently. When the drivers began to feel the effects of the scuffle they commenced to attack the expressman, with the result that he received some severe injuries about the face and head. The case will be ventilated in the Police Court.

Unprofitable Speculation.

The question is being debated in England, What would Cobden have done were he alive to see the present tendency toward abstract free trade, and the movement in favor of an Imperial policy? The discussion is a useless one. Mr. Cobden is not responsible for all the later developments of the Manchester school. The fruits of free trade came in time to assume a shape that certainly did not coincide with all the principles he laid down. He was not a Little Englander, nor, as was shown in the French treaty, a hard and fast theoretical free trader. In the early 40's the Manchester agitators found a condition of things that was not favorable to protection. The prices of food were high, and the raw materials of manufacture were taxed. Ten years before the passage of the Reform bill had created a greatly enlarged electorate, and upon the feelings of the newly enfranchised masses the free traders played with much skill and effect. It was good policy and a strong cry to declare that England should be the workshop of the world, while other nations could do the fighting. These conditions—England manufacturing and her future competitors chiefly military nations—continued for nearly a generation after the repeal of the Corn Laws. Events increased the hold of free trade upon England as the best business policy for the country. But the development of manufactures in Germany, the United States and other countries brought into existence an entirely different state of things. Cobden passed away before the new situation declared itself, and it is, therefore, idle to speculate upon what his views would have been under a condition which none of the men of the following England into free trade. The contrary has been the case, and protection for national purposes has become more firmly rooted as the years roll on. Those who deny this persist in shutting their eyes to facts. Since Cobden's death, Cobden was a man of ability and resources, there is reason to suppose that he would have adapted himself to circumstances, instead of crystallizing into a mere Bourgeois, learning nothing and forgetting nothing.

HAD TO CARRY THE UNION JACK.

Americans Presumed to Think the Stars and Stripes Sufficient for a March in Toronto.

Among the visitors by the steamer Chippewa yesterday afternoon were the St. Louis Post, No. 13, of the Grand Army of the Republic, who have been at Buffalo taking part in the demonstration.

On their arrival at the Yonge-street wharf they formed in line, and headed by their band and the Stars and Stripes, marched up Yonge-street, 150 strong.

Their discourtesy, to put it in the mildest form, led to strong expressions by the spectators. At Queen and Yonge-streets Police-man Stewart stepped to the head of the procession and informed the members that before going further they must get a Union Jack and carry it in the procession. Such was the result. The sight of the Americans were indignant, but the officer was determined, and when he came out he carried a large Union Jack. None of the visitors, however, carried a flag, so a boy was hired, and up Yonge-street the procession passed. The sight of the Americans in the Queen's Park, where the Parliament Buildings are, was a sight to be remembered. They were the afternoon host to Lewiston.

BURGERS AT BOWMANVILLE.

The Mason Company's Store Entered and Some Goods Carried Off.

Bowmanville, Aug. 26.—The large dry goods and grocery stores of the Mason Company were burglariously entered last night through the rear or south end of the building. The burglar crossed the window were bent so as to admit the body of a small man. Then the door was opened, and free entrance was secured. A large quantity of men's clothing, underwear, boots and shoes, ties and two valises were taken. The night watchman on duty saw no one in the buildings after the establishment was closed at 6.30 p.m.

The burglar or burglars were apparently not professional, but no clue has yet been obtained to the culprits.

FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

This is the Amount Staked for by the Thompsons for Malicious Prosecution.

Suits were entered yesterday on behalf of W. A. Boyce and T. C. Thompson against Charles Reid, head of the wholesale millinery firm of Reid, Taylor & Bayne, of Toronto. The suits are for malicious prosecution in connection with the recent investigation of the affairs of the John Thompson & Co. The Thompsons claim $15,000, and T. C. Thompson asks $25,000 and T. C. Thompson $10,000 damages.

THE QUEEN STREET STORE.

is the centre of interest for West End residents. The bargains at the Western Branch of The Monarch are the talk of the street—and the Street Railway Company protest that a few more such stores as Guinane's on Queen street would seriously affect their receipts.

ANCIENT FORESTERS.

H. J. Snelgrove of Colborne Elected High Chief Ranger—Other Officers Chosen—Results of Thanks.

Owen Sound, Aug. 26.—(Special.)—This morning at the meeting of the Subsidary High Court of the Ancient Order of Foresters, a second report of the Finance Committee was presented, and, amongst other things, recommended that $200 and $100 be granted to Retiring Chief Ranger Jeffrey of London and Chairman W. N. Vail of the Committee on Laws respectively.

The election of officers for the next two years was then proceeded with, and the result of which is as follows: High chief ranger, H. J. Snelgrove, Colborne; by acclamation; high sub-chief ranger, W. Baird, Galt; high court treasurer, H. E. Griffith, Toronto; by acclamation; High Court medical examiner, Dr. L. Secord, Brantford; by acclamation; permanent secretary, W. Williams, St. Mary's; by acclamation; High Court clerk, J. H. Snelgrove, Colborne; High Court junior woodward, George Dalmage, Belleville. The Committee on Laws submitted a resolution thanking the brethren of Court Pride of Grey for their hospitality and diligent labor in connection with the arrangements for the meeting, and also one of thanks to the citizens of Owen Sound, and a resolution of thanks to the widow of the late Mr. T. Allan Stead, permanent secretary of the order in England.

An evening session is in progress. The meeting will conclude to-morrow and to-morrow evening an assembly has been arranged to come off in the Peterson House hall, to which all the visitors have been invited.

Two Important Reports.

At the evening session two important reports were considered. One was that of the state of the order, which referred to organization. By the report as amended special organization will cease in Ontario and Quebec during the next two years, the organization being devolved to the D. C. R.'s and such persons appointed by them of any court and approved by the D. C. R.'s. A large provision was made for organization in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Manitoba and the Northwest Territories. The second report was on the High Court medical examiner's report on medical certificates. By its adoption, all candidates' certificates will henceforth be supervised by the H. C. M. E.
