WASHINGTON LEASES BAR PHONOGRAPHS
Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—The "anti-jazz" clause has made its appearance in Washington in leases submitted by an agent for a small apartment house in the northwest section. Phonographs are classed with dogs, cats and parrots in the lease submitted to the tenants, who are also asked for increases in rent. "The lease hereby covenants and agrees that he will not keep or allow to be kept any dog, cat, parrot, gramophone or phonograph in said apartment or upon said premises," reads one clause in the lease.

New Fall and Winter Coats, Frocks and Costumes

Late arrivals show many handsome dressy models fashioned from beautiful fabrics and cleverly designed in favored modes of the moment. Prices happily follow very reasonable levels.

Fall Frocks Show Novel Trimmings

Embroidery, hand or machine done, again finds its place as trimming for all sorts of Autumn frocks. It is used very profusely on the heavy coat or chemise dresses of serge or tricotine, as well as on the soft, clinging creations of Canton crepe or satin. Sometimes this embroidery is seen to good effect in self color; more often it is seen in contrasting shade, as henna or grey on navy blue. Scallops, inserts of allover, sashes of various widths and lengths, and buttons also lend a distinction to these late arrivals.

Flannel Jumper Dresses are among the new season's novelties. These are very plain and exceedingly youthful in line and color. Jade, red, Copen, and rose are all showing.

Dressy Coats Much Favored

Trimmed with fur and embroidery for most part and often ornately lined. Cloths most in demand are: Bolivias, Velours, Duvels and other such soft, warm fabrics. Many coats are along loose, wrappy lines with big, snug-fitting collars and full backs, free hanging or belted.

Heavy embroidery or touches of fur add much to their loveliness. Browns in many variations, from the light sand shades to the dark African color predominate.

New Tuxedo Sweaters in Black and White

You will certainly find one of these smart sweaters a very useful and comfortable addition to your fall and winter wardrobe. They are fine knit, sashed or belted, and may be found in all white, or black with white trimmings.
