To which His Excellency was pleased to return the following answer:—

GENTLEMEN,—I receive with great satisfaction this address; the sentiments of loyalty and attachment which it expressed for the person of our Gracious Sovereign are most gratifying; and the firm resolution of upholding the connection which so happily exists with the parent state, I regret as an earnest determination of the people of this Province in discountenancing Civil War and Rebellion in whatever quarter they may appear.

It will be a duty to convey the manly and loyal sentiments expressed in this address to the foot of the Throne.

The contributions to be made for the relief of the wives and children of the soldiers are highly honourable to the town; and it will end to enhance the good feeling which subsists between the inhabitants and the troops. I shall feel much satisfaction in communicating the resolutions to the troops.

Government-house, Saturday.

The Committee appointed at the public meeting waited upon the Commandant on Monday and after presenting the resolutions received the reply, which we now publish with much pleasure:—

To Lieut.-Colonel J. J. SNODGRASS, Commandant of the Garrison, &c. &c.

Sir,—We, a Committee appointed at a public meeting of the inhabitants of Halifax on the 15th inst., beg now in the discharge of the duty assigned to us, to present a copy of a series of resolutions passed unanimously at the said meeting and we feel happy in being honoured with a trust so pleasing to us, and so entirely according with our individual sentiments.

(Signed) William Young,
 J. W. Johnston,
 J. J. Sawyer,
 J. Leander Starr,
 Hugh Bell.

Halifax, December 13, 1837.

To which the following answer was returned:—

Gentlemen,—I can truly assure you that it has never been my fortune to peruse any public testimonial of interest in the soldier more acceptable to his best feelings as a man; or better calculated to encourage him in the cheerful performance of his duties than that which you have now placed in my hands.

It will be my first duty to bring your most kind and considerate proposal to the notice of his Excellency the Major General commanding; and I will take an early opportunity of communicating further with you on the subject of it.—In the meantime although quite aware that my personal acknowledgement can only be of value when united with those of my brother officers and soldiers I cannot deny myself the pleasure of expressing the satisfaction which I feel in being the medium of so interesting and honourable a communication from the loyal and enlightened inhabitants of this town to the several corps stationed in it.

I should indeed but ill fulfil the expectations of those whom I have the honour to represent did I not state that sentiments contained in these noble resolutions will be regarded by the service at large as a renewed example of the hospitable and friendly spirit which has distinguished this community in all its relations with the troops a spirit that has long placed Halifax foremost in the list of the favourite stations of the British army.

J. J. SNODGRASS, Colonel.

The following letter was received by the Committee on Tuesday:—

Commandants' Office,
 Halifax, 19th Dec., 1837.

GENTLEMEN,—Having communicated with the Major General Commanding, upon the subject of the resolutions passed at a public meeting of the inhabitants of Halifax on the 15th instant for raising a fund for the relief of the wives and children of the soldiers ordered from this garrison and which you did me the honour to place in my hands yesterday I am now commanded to state to you that his Excellency in common with every officer and soldier under his command justly appreciates this generous expression of public sympathy and feeling on an occasion which certainly demands the exercise of every military virtue and no doubt must entail some suffering and privation upon those who may be dependent on the absent soldier. The duty which belonged to me of forwarding these resolutions and making your wishes and intentions known to the several corps interested in them has been duly executed; and as soon as lists can be prepared of such women and children as may stand in need of aid they shall be forwarded to you.

It now only remains for me, in the name of every corps, and of every officer and soldier belonging to this garrison to tender our best and warmest thanks to the inhabitants of Halifax for this new and substantial proof of their proverbial kindness and hospitality towards the military who have the good fortune to be stationed among them.

I have the honour to be,
 Gentlemen,
 Your most obedt. humble svt.,
 J. J. SNODGRASS,
 Lt. Col. Commandant.

To J. J. Sawyer, J. L. Starr, W. Young, J. W. Johnston, and H. Bell, Esqrs

POTERY

CHRISTIAN THE TEMPEST.

St. MATTHEW, VIII. 24—27.

Midnight was on the mighty deep,
 And darkness filled the boundless sky,
 While 'mid the raging wind was heard
 The sea-bird's mournful cry;
 For tempest clouds were muttering wrath
 Across the seaman's trackless path.

It came at length—one fearful gust
 Rent from the mast the shivering sail,
 And drove the helpless bark along,
 The play thing of the gale;
 While fearfully the lightning's glare
 Fell on the pale brows gathered there.

But there was one, o'er whose bright face
 Unmarked the livid lightning flashed,
 And on whose stierless, prostrate form,
 Unfelt the sea-spray flashed,
 For, 'mid the tempest fierce and wild,
 He slumbered like a wearied child.

Oh! who could look upon that face,
 And feel the sting of coward fear?
 Though hell's fierce demons raged around
 Yet heaven itself was here;
 For who that glorious brow could see,
 Nor own a present Deity?

With hurried fear they press around
 The lowly Saviour's humble bed,
 As if his very touch had power
 To shield their souls from dread;
 While, cradled on the raging deep,
 He lay in calm and tranquil sleep.

Vainly they struggled with their fears,
 But wider still the tempest woke,
 Till from their full and o'er fraught hearts
 The voice of terror broke,
 "Behold we sink beneath the wave—
 "We perish, LORD! but thou can'st save."

Slowly he rose—and mild rebuke
 Shone in his soft and heaven lit-eye—
 "Oh ye of little faith!" he cried,
 "Is not your master nigh?
 "Is not your hope of succour just?
 "Why know ye not in whom ye trust?"

He turned away, and conscious power
 Dilated his majestic form,
 As o'er the boiling sea he bent,
 The ruler of the storm.
 Earth to its centre felt the thrill,
 As low he murmured—"Peace! Be still!"

Hark to the burst of meeting waves,
 The roaring of the angry sea!
 A moment more and all is hushed
 In deep tranquillity!
 While not a breeze is near to break
 The mirrored surface of the lake.

Then, on the stricken hearts of all,
 Fell anxious doubt and holy awe,
 As timidly they gazed on him
 Whose will was nature's law.
 "What man is this," they cry, "whose word
 "E'en by the raging sea is heard?"
