He Says the World's Tourist Should Always Visit Victoria.

"A world's tourist, in marking out the out upon them, should, if he wishes to do the thing thoroughly, mark down from two to three weeks for the pur-pose of seeing Victoria and her surroundings, and if he desires to extend his sightseeing beyond the outer suburban limits, that is to say, over twenty miles outside the city; then his programme should allow for a longer stay on Vancouver Island, for I consider that two or three weeks would be well spent in seeing and becoming fa-miliar with the natural and artificial tourse of a visit to the King Edward hotel and in speaking of the advantages of Victoria as an attraction for tour-ists. Although Mr. Walsh only arrived from England via the east and Vancouver yesterday he is nevertheless in a position to speak with authority on surroundings as well as many of the residents. He from his absence, also has the advantage of more particularly noticing the changes and progress that have taken place in the fifteen years in-In this regard Mr. Walsh tervening. finds there are great improvements in the city, among which are the completion of the parliament buildings, the new hotel, the James Bay causeway, and several other substantial features which he says go to make the city one of still greater attraction than when it relied more on its outside scenery and its hunting and fishing to draw the visitor and tourist. When the news reached him of his mission, on behalf of the ed him of his mission, on behalt of the new publication, to come to Canada, Mr. Walsh says he looked forward with considerable pleasure to once more see-ing Victoria, as the most beautiful of the cities was in former days the city of his countable time. Her natural surroundings are a TRAPPER LOSES feature that speak in her favor highly, he says, and he admits they cannot b spoken of too highly. Her waters, her bays and coast beauties mark Victoria as a place for enjoyment, and the beautiful views across the water, and her inland landscape, place her in the way of scenery at the top of the tree. From the point of short trips at the end of which the tourist finds extra scenic pleasure, Victoria is in the opin-ion of Mr. Walsh, the equal of all others on Canadian soil and the superio of many others in other portions of the

"From the point of the sportsman Victoria and Vancouver Island contains all that a man can expect to find on one skins which he valued at over $1,000, all that a man can expect to find on one island. Fishing is here in abundance," said Mr. Walsh, "shooting can be had took fire and he tost all he had. It was at a very short distance, and if a man wants to go further afield he can shoot limet to be added a shoot see anyone during the whole winter almost any kind of animal that can be found in the northern latitudes." Both itinerary of his travels before he starts from a tourist and a permanent residential standpoint Mr. Walsh points out that Victoria has many advantages, and adds that it is very apparent, from the extensive building operations that have gone on since the time he was in Victoria before, that there are several score persons who agree with him in this opinion. For a permanent home he points to the advantages the resident has for amusement in the way of outdoor life which he maintains is without doubt the healthiest form of existence. ## Formation of 102nd Regiment.

Nelson, May 9 .- In connection with the recent formation of the 102nd Regiment, with headquarters at Nelson, which is shortly to be gazetted, Col. Holmes made an inspection of Company B. R. M. R. There were presented the new signal corps, the first of the kind in the province.

Col. Holmes, who gave the men, the n-coms. and officers a severe gruelling, declared at the end that he was No Public Subscriptions Will more than satisfied with the work acmplished and announced that the new signal corps was a new departure which had his entire approval and also that of the department, and the same would be formally acknowledged a little later under general orders. It is understood that the forthcon ing general orders will give some defi-nite announcement as to the new 102nd Regiment. This was the old number of the Royal Dublin Fusiliers, who pore themselves so well in South Affica. Colonel Holmes referred to this matter in his address to the local from the general public in order to company, and hoped that the new regiment in Canada would esteem it their ity to at least equal the record of heir namesakes.

While the promotions incident to the 102nd Regiment will consist to be-gin with of four companies-two from rtermaster R. J. Steek: chaplain. Rev. F. H. Graham; surgeon, W. se while the adjutant is likely to be Odlum, formerly of Vancouver.
