WILD FOXES IN P. E. ISLAND

A story of a trapper and his unsuccessful attempt to bag a fox.

Although one sometimes hears it said that there is not a fox at liberty in P. E. Island, yet the writer has reason to believe otherwise. About a week ago a man in Port Augustus came near capturing one. In the morning while he was out doing the stable work he observed something coming up along the fence and on closer observation he discovered it to be a fox. Quickly getting his gun he started in pursuit, following the fox over to a neighbor's barn. He found to his great satisfaction that the fox had gone under the barn so he then proceeded to stuff up every hole around the barn and feeling that he had made everything secure, and that there would be no fear of the fox escaping, he went back home to get his traps, but on returning what did he find to his great surprise, but that in his absence the cunning rascal, thinking no doubt that there was trouble brewing, took the opportunity to make good his escape. The man on seeing this got into his tracks and tracked him down to a woods some distance from the barn but the rabbit tracks being so numerous he lost all trace of the fox track. Thus ended the chase which was begun with such bright hopes and prospects.

DINNIS RANCH STILL ATTRACTS MANY VISITORS

A sketch of the activities on this renowned fur farm—Foxes all in healthy condition.

The chief point of interest for the thousands of tourists who visit Charlottetown is the Dinis ranch. It is situated about ten minutes' drive from the city on an eminence overlooking the harbor and consists of one hundred and sixty acres of land. It is chiefly of interest because the fox ranch which occupies ten acres of woodland on the highest point of this farm is the largest in the province and its owner has the reputation of being the most successful of all fox breeders up to the present time.

Situated as it is on a wooded hill-top it is ideally located for fox home. The natural drainage of the ground is perfect, so that there is no danger of spring freshets so fatal to young foxes. The air is always pure and fresh, and the winds which sweep the hill-top carry away all harmful and disagreeable odors and tumbles the chilling fogs into the valley below. The fact that Mr. Dinis has never had a single case of sickness among his animals since he acquired the present ranch (three years ago) is sufficient evidence of the healthfulness of the ranch and surroundings. The ranch has an enviable history of success. Last year seven per cent. of the island's increase of young foxes were born in this ranch. This year Mr. Dinis has so far seen fifty-eight young foxes. It is not much wonder that he is called the "Wizard Rancher". This is the best report received from any ranch so far. As Mr. Dinis is invariably successful in bringing all viable puppies to maturity—having never lost a young fox from worms, it may safely be assumed that the ranch will again hold the premier position in the province in regard to the raising of foxes. Mr. Dinis claims to have a specific for the worm pest. He says that Dr. Higgins hit the nail squarely on the head when he pointed out the danger of dosing all young foxes with worms. As there is a high mortality among young foxes Mr. Dinis' remedy is a valuable breeding secret, and it has been suggested that the Fox Breeders' Association take steps to acquire it.

REGISTRATION AND PEDIGREE OF FOXES

Points of interest in the Classification of Foxes—High prices for pelts.

A very attractively gotten up copy of the Herd Book of the John R. Dinis Pedigreed Foxes Limited, has just come to hand. The board of management of this company is to be congratulated on its up-to-date and open methods of doing business.

The John R. Dinis Pedigreed Foxes Limited was the first company to register its animals in the Silver Fox Breeders' Association, and it is the only company to issue a Herd Book descriptive of its foxes.

The fox industry is at bottom a live stock business, and the all important point is the quality and the pedigree of the breeding animals. What investors want to know about a fox company is where the foxes were bred from whom purchased, and of what breeding strain. Giving correct information it is an easy matter to carry out an investigation into the quality of the animals.

The Herd Book gives a detailed description of the breeding of the Dinis Pedigreed foxes back for three generations, stating the ranches in which each was whelped together with "performance-records" of the ancestors in regard to fur values and productiveness in the breeding pens. There are some astonishing records.

THE MILLION DOLLAR BUSINESS

THE SILVER BLACK FOX

A new magazine devoted to Fox interests has appeared—Many features.

The Standard is in receipt of the first number of "The Silver Black Fox," a journal published by the Black Fox Publishing Co., Canada Life Building, St. John, and devoted to the black fox industry and general fur farming. This initial number is entirely creditable to those who are responsible for its appearance, and marks a new development in the publication of trade papers. It contains in its fifteen odd pages of advertising, announcements from many of the best known organizations in the business today. The magazine, consisting of thirty-six pages, is profusely illustrated, with cuts of prominent ranchers, dealers and writers, and photos of animal life. It is filled with well selected information dealing with the fur farming industry, including many special articles. Among the contributors to this number are J. E. B. McCready, publicity agent for P. E. Island, A. H. Chipman of Canadian Traders, Ltd., St. John, Fred L. Rogers, president of the P. E. Island Stock Breeders' Association, Dr. Higgins, government pathologist, John O. Hyndman of the John Agnew Fur Farms, Ltd., J. R. Barr, proprietor of the Bonnell Advertising Agency, Charlottetown, H. M. Bolger and others. Many phases of fox farming are dealt with and the magazine as a whole is a valuable contribution to the literature of an industry which in a very brief period has assumed much importance.
