He said in part: "In these days of distress and perplexity many are fearful lest this old order passes away entirely, because they fail to see in this a great blessing in disguise. When we get the Divine view point," he said, "Christ's millenial kingdom will be established right upon the ruins of the present kingdoms of earth, and within a few years will extend from Jerusalem until it controls all the nations."

"Adam," he said, "was placed in a small paradise at the beginning of human history. Christ died to restore that which was lost, and that was an earthly home for humanity. Jesus, at His second coming, will restore this paradise for the millions that will then be allve, and in due time will resurrect all of Adam's great family, to have the opportunity of enjoying the paradise of the future."
