WUSC SEMINAR TO EGYPT 1975

Action Center calls again

Those interested in public service, and can give of their time and understanding are asked to call the Volunteer Action Centre at 482-6431. A job can be found for anyone who cares enough to donate his or her time to a worthy cause.

The following are some areas where volunteers ary

Contact WUSC Campus Committee

or WUSC, 27 Coulburn Avenue, Ottawa

Teen volunteers are needed work in the Glenrose Hospital. Whether its leading group activities or helping a patient with school work, this opportunity promises to be a learning and broadening experience in human service.

Many families in Edmonton have difficulty completing tax returns each year. They may be the elderly, the inform, new citizens, or the mentally handicapped. Early in the new year a team of volunteers will be trained in income tas preparation to assist these Edmontonians in need of this service.

As a volunteer tutor you can help kids with learning problems. Training is provided. Teach a little.

The public library needs volunteers to select books from the shelves and deliver them to homebound persons in the North Central and South Side areas of te city.

Volunteers for work in probation are needed by various social service agencies in Edmonton. Training and orientation is provided for those who are over 18 years of age and are interested in helping with these programmes.

Big Sisters are now recruiting volunteers for their fall programmes. The positions involve one-to-oen supportive friendship roles with young girls. Maturity and commitment are vital to these programmes. Orientation and training are

American ivory tower

Cincinnati, Ohio (I.P.) -There has been too much over-selling of technical and work-training programs in post-secondary education, according to Dr. Garland Parker, vice provost for admissions and records at the University of Cincinnati.

"The pendulum has swun too far in the pronouncements of self-appointed publicists as well as those of many state and federal leaders in government and education in their lauding of overly-narrow, technical-vocational and highly specialized training programs," Dr. Parker said.

He blamed much of this problem on liberal arts colleges and their professors. "Too long they disdained the need of and the demand from students to make their presentations more relevant to the concerns of this generation.

"Too much they remained ensconced in the insulated ivory towers of their historic disciplines, avoided active involvements in community services and refrained from innovative practices and thrusts designed to involved more persons, especially career and adult people, in a study of the liberal arts that would give those studies a more current focus. "Teaching was denigrated, publication was prioritized and students were tolerated in terms of numbers and classes only to the extent absolutely necessary."

Nurses Bursary

A scholarship fund of up to $1,000 per year has been established by the University of Alberta Hospital's Board of Directors.

The fund was formulated in recognition of the recent 50th anniversary of the University of Alberta and University Hospital Schools of Nursing.

It will be awarded annually to a graduate of the University Hospital School of Nursing who is attending a full-time graduate or post-graduate program at any university.

Criteria for selection scholarship recipients will be defined by Ruth McClure, director of the University of Alberta School of Nursing and Geneva Purcell, director of nursing, University Hospital.

Frat initiation ends in murder

Bluefield, W.V., (ENS) - A Bluefield, West Virginia college student goes on trial next week, charged with the murder of a fraternity brother during a fraternity initiation ceremony.

According to West Virginia State Trooper J. R. Howell, the victim was shot with a revolver during a drunken party that was "half a ceremony and half a beer party".

Bluefield State College president Billy Coffindaffer has temporarily suspended the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity from the campus, pending investigations by the college, the state police, and the fraternity itself.

