

Excalibur to prospect in community

Scattered about like deposits of valuable minerals in the rocky and expansive environs of York University, there are people who should be sought with a pick and hammer. Not obvious to the untrained eye, yet essential to the wealth of the community, there are individuals at York who, because of their academic merit or service to the community deserve to be dug up, and featured in Excalibur. We have a prospector out digging, but you can make her job a lot easier if you come in to Excalibur at 111 Central Square and tell us about anyone in the community who you think deserves special recognition.

GRAB-BAG!

Compiled by DAVID BUNDAS

Excalibur is a member of the prestigious Canadian Community Newspapers Association. Grab Bag is an irregular feature in which we highlight some of the most poignant moments of our sister publications in small towns like ours across the land.

Lots of reasons

We tend to take our capacity to produce food for granted. Information provided by people who have worked in Ethiopia generates interesting comparisons with Saskatchewan.

Ethiopia is described as "the breadbasket of Africa" in much the same way as this province is the breadbasket of Western Canada. The difference is that Ethiopia is not living up to its potential.

A large part of the reason for people starving in Ethiopia is the drought that has plagued the nation for a number of years, but that's by no means the only reason.

1010 pounds is the limit

"Our motto is "The sign of success is not a dirty Lincoln," says the new owner of Tower Carwash on Burrows Avenue West in Melford.

Glen Johnston believes that a carwash is an essential business in a city of this size. He could see that people need this service year-round so when the former owners of the carwash, Ray and Darlene Lafond, advertised it for sale, Glen purchased the business.

"It is important to keep a business like this open and operating," says Glen.

Glen and his manager, Bob Zabos, are proud of their two-bay carwash and the type of service they can offer the driving public.

They point out the newly installed pumps which keep the water pressure at 1010 pounds.

"You can't go much higher than that," says Glen. "Any more pressure and you might start removing the paint on vehicles."

Please note new bag limits

Hunters are reminded that reduced bag limits and delayed hunting seasons are in effect in an attempt to restore upland game bird populations adversely affected by recent drought and harsh winter conditions.

Ring-necked pheasant populations in Saskatchewan are also down about 38 per cent from last year. Again, the drought has put more pressure on their habitat and last winter a greater number of pheasants were lost due to high wind chill factors and inaccessible food.

Bag limits on pheasants have been reduced to three daily and six in possession.

Sproule gets new car

CASKEY I—This must be Indian summer. We are so grateful for this nice sunshine. It will shorten the winter.

Lucy Redman had Mr. and Mrs. Hanaka call on her from Renton, Washington.

We had a good pot luck dinner at Senior Citizens on Wednesday at noon. A good crowd out and a very good lunch at three.

Tom Sefton, Mona, Lizzie Murray and Lucy Redman went to Ethelton to the fowl supper.

We were saddened to hear that Mrs. Braaten had passed away. Our sympathy goes out to all the family.

Good driving to Jennie Sproule in her new car.

There was a nice crowd out to the Eastern Star tea, and the tables looked so nice with all their dishes.

Maude Bradley is liking her new home at Pioneer Lodge.

Freda Anderson seems quite settled in her new home at Nirvana Villa.

Cow moose poached

Recently, seven night hunting charges were laid at Spiritwood involving two groups of poachers.

Also, a person was charged at Meadow Lake for hunting on a bait station designed to keep ducks from feeding in farmers' fields.

At Greenwater Provincial Park, a cow moose was shot out of season. A determined investigation resulted in charges.
