

You are Losing More Money on Untapped Maple Trees Than You Make on an Acre of any Other Crop.

Any farmer that has an untapped maple grove is overlooking the biggest opportunity to make money on his farm. Every crop that you plant in the ground requires seed, fertilizing, ploughing, cultivating, cleaning and a number of other operations that take time and money. Too much dry, wet or cold weather may mean little or no crop.

Maple trees always produce a fair crop, and they grow on land that is practically worthless for cultivation. They need no care of any kind, yet each year they produce more and are tapped at a season when you cannot do any other kind of work.

Maple Syrup and sugar now command the best prices in their history. If you have maple trees, let us tell you how to make the most out of them with little time and effort.
