The Windrow.

During 1819—one hundred years ago —were born Walt Whitman, James Russell Lowell, Julia Ward Howe, J. G.
Holland, Susan Warner and Charles A. Dana. At that time were in their childhood or early youth, Emerson, Thoreau, Whittier, Longfellow, Alcott, Hawthorne, and Miss Stowe.

It is to Canada's everlasting credit that she was first in the field with plans and proposals for helping soldiers maimed and otherwise injured in the war to earn their living and become self-reliant. The establishment of Vocational Training Schools has been one of the first results.
It is to be hoped that the career of the soldiers will be followed when they have left these schools, and that every effort will be made by everyone who knows these men to enable them to "get along" well with the work they have chosen.

The Plight of Essen.

In addition to the idleness caused by strikes at the mines in that region, the effects of the war have created at Essen one of the most impressive transformation scenes in Europe. The Krupp works there, which were formerly the world's greatest producers of military engines, are now all but abandoned.
Miles of furnaces and workshops are deserted. In one corner of the vast establishment workmen are repairing cannon so as to make them acceptable to the Allies to whom they are to be surrendered, and that is all. During the war these works turned out 40,000 cannon, and for a considerable time produced 2,500,000 shells a month. Now nothing of the sort is being manufactured there.
Doubtless it will be possible to resume industries of a peaceful kind. Before the war the vast bulk of the output of the Krupp works was non-military, consisting of railroad rails, car wheels and similar things. Moreover, it is pointed out that such work was more profitable than military work. The general manager reports that dividends of the corporation were 7 per cent in 1912, 10 per cent in 1913, 14 per cent in 1914, 12 per cent early in the war and 10 per cent, later and now nothing.—The Independent.
