Mr. McLean, of the Blonde Lumbe & Manufacturing Company, has made a mixture of ashes and coal, which burns with the best of satisfaction. He began using it in his furnace yesterday noon and to-day he states yesterday noon and to-day he structs that it is equally as good as the coal. The mixture is as follows:—
Three bushels of ashes, one-half bushel of fine coal, and four pails of salt water. The new fuel will burn twice as long as the coal and will produce as much heat. It leaves no ashes and burns almost as bright as the coal. This new discovery will be of great value to all users of coal and wood.
