VARICOCELE CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Dr. Kennedy and Kergan, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. He wrote them and got the New Method Treatment for me. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $15 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $25 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."

THE COLD CURERS.

I try to please
My fellow men,
Returning favors
Now and then,
But I'll be broken
On a broke
Or hanged and quartered
If I take
To please them when
I have a cold
All of the dope
I will can hold.

Soon as a man
Has an attack
He should lie down
Upon his back
And with a funnel
In his face
Should drink a barrel
Or a case
Of remedies
Both new and old,
Each warranted
To cure a cold.

Oh, why will people
Otherwise
Quite decent folks
Assume a wise
And knowing look
When they are told
A fellow mortal
Has a cold?
Their dope with us
Is not a hit.
But they may fit
Themselves on it.

The Two Great Cards.

"He is writing a play full of human interest."
"What is it about—love?"
"Yes, and eating."

Not Moving Up.
"He is making wonderful progress as a tenor."
"Still a tenor?"
"Sure; what did you expect?"
"Thought he would be at least an elevenor by this time."

Winter Rain.

Softly drip the drops of rain
Down my polished window pane
Like the pearly tears of those
Fairy sprites the cold o'erthrow.

Scarcely now the low wind stirs
As the rain cloud darkly blurs
Every sight and every sound
Save the patter on the ground.

Just a gentle sigh and low
As the dying breeze blows,
Ghosts of echoes of the time
Winter reigned in frost and rime.

So the dying season's close
Like a phantom vision goes,
While a throbbing life profound
Sweeps the sky and thrills the ground.

Masculine Attributes.

"A German professor has discovered that the man in the moon is a woman."
"Nonsense! He is a man."
"How do you know?"
"By the way he stays out nights."

Seldom Do.
"He is so rich he can't begin to spend his money."
"I haven't heard him calling for help."

Could Know In Advance.

"How do you tell classical music from any other kind?"
"By the price of admission."

In the Future.

"Come, fly with me," the man implored
As he put on his things
"I can't," the blushing girl replied.
"Ma has locked up my wings."

Different.

"Are you fond of money?"
"Not at all. It is the not having it that I object to."

Free Treatment for Sick Kidneys

WRITE FOR GIN PILLS

If you have suffered for years with kidney trouble—if you know your kidneys are sick, but have not been able to find anything that will help you—or if you suspect that you have kidney disease, write for a sample of GIN PILLS, the pills that cure. We don't ask you to spend a single penny, or promise to send any. Simply take the box of pills which we send you free of charge. We leave it to you whether or not you will take any more after the sample box is gone.

RAT PORTAGE, October, 1905

I was troubled for about two years with kidney trouble, so common among railway men. I doctored in the regular way and took a great deal of medicine, but received no benefit. My friend recommended Gin Pills, and I am pleased to state that after taking the first box I got relief, and while I am not taking them regularly, I feel any indications of a return of the trouble, a few doses puts me all right again.

CHAS. SIMMONS, C.P.R. Engineer.

This letter is the experience of hundreds. They try doctors and drugs without relief, but they find the cure for their trouble in GIN PILLS. Take advantage of our generous offer. Mention in what paper you saw this, with your name and address, and we will send you, absolutely free of charge, a sample box of GIN PILLS. They are sold by all druggists at 50c a box, or 6 boxes for $2.50.

Primitive Incense.

In ancient days sweet odors were obtained by burning aromatic gums and woods; hence the word perfume, which is from the Latin per, through, fumus, smoke or vapor. From this arose the idea of incense in primitive worship. It was used by the orientals long before it became known to the western world. People of the east utilized it for sacrifice in their temples. At feasts it enhanced the pleasure of the senses. At funerals it was a bribe to appease the manes of the dead, and later, in theaters, a disinfectant against the unpleasant odors of a crowded building. Pliny assures us that incense was not employed in sacrifice until after the Trojan war, when fragrant woods were applied to give an agreeable smell. In an ancient magical manuscript it is directed that three grains should be taken, with three fingers, and placed under the threshold to keep away evil spirits which might come in the form of offensive odors.

WIT SHARPENERS.

A Game in Which the Players Must Think Quickly.

A delightful home game for children is as follows:

"I see something in this room that begins with R," says the one to the right of mamma.

Now, this person may have ring, rug, or rocker in his mind. Immediately the guessing will begin. "Rug," "rose," "rocker," and so on. The one guessing correctly will have his turn. If he selects a compound word, as watch-chain, he would give the initial letter of each word. "I see something in this room that begins with w-c."

When tired of this they can change it somewhat by saying:

"Now, let's furnish a house," "I donate a carpet," says "It." The one on his left instantly takes it up, using the last letter of carpet as his initial.

He will perhaps say, "And I will furnish a table," while the next will use the last, "e," of table as the beginning letter of his furnishing, as "cane."

If one cannot think of anything before "It" counts ten he must go foot or pay a forfeit.

When tired of the house the window will furnish entertainment of the same sort. "I see rain," cries one. "Next," says the next. "Thrush," "hill," "table," and "evergreen" will follow in quick succession.

This game is capable of an almost limitless number of variations. The children can plant trees or a vegetable garden. They can have the maple, elm, mulberry, yew. They may safely place in the ground potato, okra, aloe, egg plant and tomato, or they may deal in flowers in the same manner.

SLEEPING CARS.

The First Crude Ones Were Thought the Acme of Comfort.

Current advertisements describing the luxurious appointments offered the modern traveler on sea and land give point to the contrast of the last century, which were then regarded as the height to which the passengers had a right to aspire. The issue of the Pennsylvania Railroad and Mining Register of June 28, 1856, said:

"The Buffalo Car company lately shipped a lot of cars for the Illinois Central railroad which are far ahead of anything in their line yet seen in the west. One of them contained six staterooms, each room having two seats with cushioned backs, long enough for a person to lie upon. The backs of the seats are hung with hinges at the upper edge, so that they may be turned up at pleasure, thus forming two single berths, one over the other, where persons may sleep with all the comfort imaginable. In one end of the car is a small wash room, with marble washbowl, looking glass, etc. On the opposite side of the car from the staterooms is a row of seats with revolving backs, similar to barbers' chairs, so arranged that the occupant may sit straight or recline in an easy attitude at pleasure. The other five cars have each two or three similar staterooms."

The birth of the Pullman car came a little later. In the spring of 1858 George M. Pullman remodeled at Bloomington, Ill., a few of the cars of the Chicago and Alton and made them the first Pullman sleeping cars.

HORSESHOES.

The Three Lucky Elements That Are Associated in Them.

The superstition that associates the horseshoe with good luck is very old. It is said to prevail not only among English speaking people, but in all the races of Europe and in southern Asia. Antiquarians are undecided whether its origin has to do with the material from which the horseshoe is made or with its shape.

The ancients believed that iron as a metal had great secret powers, and they drove nails into their walls as a protection against pestilence. The Arabs when overtaken by severe storms in the desert cry out, "Iron, iron!" which they think will propitiate the evil spirits which have raised the storm. The Scandinavians have held from time immemorial the idea that it was lucky to find a piece of iron.

As regards the form of the horseshoe, there is no doubt that among the ancients the crescent form was much favored as having lucky or preservative powers. Ornaments were shaped in this way to drive away evil spirits. The Chinese have their tombs built in a semicircular form, like a horseshoe, and the Moors use the same form in their architecture.

It may be remarked that in the mythology of Europe horses were also regarded as luck bearers, and superstition once supposed that a horse's hoof placed under the bed would cure certain complaints. The horseshoe therefore may be said to unite within itself three lucky elements—it is in the shape of a crescent, it is made of iron, and it has been taken from a horse.

Fashions Caused by Deformities.

Of the close connection between fashion and deformity there are many examples. Through illness Philip the Good had to have his head shaved. Shaven heads, accordingly, perforce, became fashionable at his court.

The daughters of Louis XI. hid their very large feet in long dresses; hence trailing gowns.

The wife of Philip III. set the fashion of high collars in disguising her long neck with a wimple.

Henry Plantagenet introduced boots with extravagantly curved toes to conceal a growth on one of his feet.

Louis XIV. wore a wig to cover unsightly wens on his head, while James I. adopted voluminous trunk hose, afterward fashionable, to hide his deformity.

Contract For Statue.

Hamilton, April 16.—Saturday afternoon the Queen Victoria memorial statue committee agreed to award the contract of making the statue to Philippe Hebert, C. M. G. The only other competitor was Hamilton McCarthy. The statue will cost $10,000, and will be placed in the west end of Gore Park.

Neither Indian nor Ceylon tea alone produces the Red Rose flavor

To produce a tea with the "rich fruity flavor" of Red Rose Tea from either Ceylon or Indian alone is impossible.

Neither Indian nor Ceylon in itself possesses the Red Rose flavor, but combined in proper proportions they produce the "rich fruity flavor" that has made Red Rose Tea famous—that makes Red Rose Tea the only tea used in any home where it is once tried.

ZONE CENTRE.

On Monday evening the young people of the Methodist church, Bothwell, gave a surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Goodyear. They presented Mr. Goodyear with a handsome Morris chair.

On Thursday evening a large number of neighbors and friends gathered to spend a farewell evening with Mr. and Mrs. Goodyear and family before their departure for their new home near Strathroy. A good time was spent in games, etc., and at the end of the program an address was read by Mr. R. Ellison and a beautiful Morris chair was presented to Mrs. Goodyear.

Mr. Goodyear and family left for their new home Tuesday morning.

Mrs. J. Tinney and daughter Belle returned home Monday after spending a week with James Tinney, Euphemie.

Joshua Lidster spent a few days last week the guest of friends in Chatham.

Mr. Thompson returned home on Friday after spending nearly a week up north speculating. He brought home with him over 70 sheep and 19 cattle.

Charles Eberle, of Dresden, spent Sunday at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Kettlewell, of Strathroy, who exchanged farms with Mr. Goodyear, have moved on their farm here.

Rev. W. H. G. Colles, I. P. S., visited our school Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Vanhorn spent Friday and Saturday with friends in Chatham.

Mr. James Wade, of Euphemie, is moving on John Dalton's farm.

The remains of the late Richard Leverton, of Clearville, formerly of Zone, were laid to rest in the Bothwell cemetery on Monday. Just one week ago Sunday the remains of his wife were laid to rest. Mr. and Mrs. Leverton were a very aged couple. Mrs. Leverton was in her 91 year and he a few months younger. Mr. Arthur Leverton, who is well known in this country, is a son of the deceased.

Misses Leah Schott and Clara Gordon are collecting for the Bible Society.
