

Progress of the War. SIEGE OF SEBASTOPOL.

From the Illustrated London News, Nov. 1854.
The progress of the siege of Sebastopol is slowly progressing. The Allies are doing all in their power to bring it to a speedy termination...

THE ATTACK ON BALACLAVA.

From the Illustrated London News, Nov. 1854.
The Russians made their long-expected attack on our rear this day, at two o'clock, with a large force, consisting of 2000 cavalry, under General Velichko, eight regiments of infantry, and forty guns, under General Prince Gortschakoff...

ATTACK ON THE HEIGHTS OF SEBASTOPOL.

From the Illustrated London News, Nov. 1854.
On the 25th, at two o'clock in the afternoon, the Russians advanced to the attack on the heights of Sebastopol. The British and French forces were repulsed with loss...

THE HEAVY CAVALRY BRIGADE CHARGE.

From the Illustrated London News, Nov. 1854.
After the repulse of the Russian cavalry by the 93rd Highlanders, the next possible intrenchment in the attack on the heights, was the charge made by the Heavy Cavalry Brigade, which our Allies, who watched the proceedings from a neighbouring hill, gave a hearty cheer...

THE HEAVY CAVALRY BRIGADE CHARGE.

From the Illustrated London News, Nov. 1854.
The Russian cavalry, about 2000 in number, advanced down the hill with the evident intention to attack our cavalry. The success was this, however, that the charge was repulsed...

Telegraph 44-1000
The Allies' position is still...
The Russian position is still...
The British position is still...
The French position is still...