Household Notes.

Invalids are apt to need nourishment often and only a little at a time. A something cooling is preferred to a hot dish. A baked apple combined with custard is both refreshing and nourishing. The apple should be cored and peeled, then baked with a little sugar and water until soft.

A delicious honey for sandwiches and tarts is made of lemons. Beat well together one cupful of sugar, one egg and butter the size of a walnut. Add juice and grated rind of one lemon. Stir well, put into a double boiler, cook slowly till thick, avoid stirring after it begins to cook, add a tiny pinch of salt.

Enamelled saucepans, etc., that have been discolored through constant use may be rendered perfectly clean by boiling for half an hour in two parts of water to which is added common soda and a small packet of chloride of lime. Then thoroughly wash in clear water and the utensils will look like new.

Paper pillows are light and comfortable for use on the piazza or in the garden or on the beach. Make the cover of any wash material and fill it with paper torn into narrow strips about one inch wide. If these strips are torn so as to form a long curl, they make a springy filling and last a long time.

Do not expect to have good coffee unless you start with a clean coffee pot. Old coffee grounds boiled over will always spoil the flavor of your coffee. Before washing the coffee pot drain the coffee from the grounds and save it. Wash the pot thoroughly being very careful to rinse out every particle of soap suds.

Cut the stalks of well-ripened rhubarb an inch long place in a cool oven. When all the moisture has evaporated, make it thoroughly hot and dry the rhubarb completely. Then put into paper bags and fasten the bags securely. When you are ready to use it, later in the winter, soak it in water and cook like fresh rhubarb.

All dried vegetables should be soaked overnight, to reabsorb the water lost through evaporation. Vegetables should always be cleaned before being cooked, and unless they are old should never be pared. During the boiling process the cover should be tilted to allow a circulation of air, which insures a better color and flavor.

A delicious green tomato pie is made with one quart of finely chopped green tomatoes, six large apples, peeled and chopped fine, mix thoroughly with three cups of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of flour mixed with the sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of mixed spices and one cupful of vinegar. Bake with two crusts.

The peach shortcake is a toothsome dainty. Sift together three or four times one quart of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one of salt. Rub into this fine heaping tablespoonfuls of butter until it feels like meal, add just enough sweet milk to make a soft dough. Divide into halves, roll enough to fill two buttered tins and bake in a moderate oven. When done, spread each with butter, place together with pared, pitted and halved peaches between, dusting generously with sugar and heaping whipped cream and fruit on top.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Dear Sirs,—I had a Bleeding Tumor on my face for a long time and tried a number of remedies without any good results. I was advised to try MINARD'S LINIMENT, and after using several bottles it made a complete cure, and it healed all up and appeared altogether.

Japanese Teapots.

All Sorts of Shapes and Sizes In All Manner of Materials.

In Japan teapots may be had in any shape, in any design, at any price. One model is a huge caldron-like affair that will hold three gallons, while others are so small that a thimbleful may be said almost to make them overflow.

The Japanese have teapots in the shape of birds, beasts and fowls. Fishes and frogs have lent their forms to others. A beetle design is very popular, as is one depicting a fat, squirming eel. Buddha himself has been pressed into service as a model. Swans, correct to the last curl of neck and feathers, form teapots so small that they can be hidden in the palm of the hand. There are lotus bud pots and pots in the shape of teahouses.

All manner of materials are included in the composition. Inlaid silver, hammered copper, iron exquisitely wrought and all the different kinds of Japanese pottery have been used in the manufacture of teapots. Several favorite designs bring $100 apiece, but so cheaply is artistic handiwork in the far east that many others may be bought for a few cents.
