THINGS.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"The world is too much with us; late and soon, getting and spending, we lay waste our powers."

Wordsworth.

The other night I should have been sound asleep I was driven from my bed by the need of trying to express a mood which took possession of me.

If you don't like moods and never have them, please, turn the page and read the stocks or the fashions or anything but this.

If you do have them, perhaps you will recognize your own experience.

It was at the close of a day in which I came into possession of a beautiful piece of furniture which I had long wanted. I was in a fever of delight and excitement all day long. I had it fitted into its place in the living-room; I viewed it from every angle; and then I called in the neighbours to rejoice with me, as country folks who have real neighbours, always do.

I went to bed still excited and on the heights and then the reaction came. This is what I wrote:

God keep us all from getting too much wrapped up in things.

God keep us from forgetting that there are other things in the world besides things.

Let me remember that after all these objects that I strive and work for are nature's husks of reality.

I love pretty gowns. I love the rich soft silks and the fascinating embroideries and priceless laces. I revel in the glorious coloring of a beautiful fabric or the fine lines of well modelled garments. I want to own these lovely things.

I love beautiful homes; the dull richness of mahogany, the subdued silvery sheen of old rugs, the fascination of fine linen, the exquisite fragility of beautiful china start my heart strings tingling whenever I see them. I want to make my home beautiful with things like these.

But I do not want to forget in my love of these things that after all, kindness and wisdom, fidelity to beliefs, sympathy and truth and love, motherhood and intercourse with friends are far more beautiful than these material things, and more real.

There are times when the fever of possession gets into my blood; there are times when things shut out the real as the fog shuts out the ocean. And then, just when I am forgetting that there is a wonderful, eternal ocean, a corner of the fog lifts and I realize again that the things we give so much of our lives for are just forms.

And then again the fog comes back. Half of us is soul and half body. We never seem in danger of stifling the body, but the soul sinks all too easily into coma.

I think most of us need to pray every day. "God keep me from stifling that part of me that knows there is something besides things in the world."

NATURE'S ESSENCE...Extracted From Forest Plants.

Nature's laws are perfect, but disease follows if these laws are not obeyed. Go straight to nature for the cure, to the forest; there are mysteries here that can fathom for you. Take the bark of the wild-cherry tree, the root of mandrake, stone, Oregon grape root, queen's root, bloodroot and golden seal, make a scientific, non-alcoholic extract of them with just the right proportions and you have...

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It took Dr. Pierce, with the assistance of two learned chemists, eight years of hard work experimenting to make this pure glyceric extract and alternative of the greatest efficiency and without the use of a particle of alcohol.

Just the sort of remedy you need to make rich, red blood, and cure fast lassitude and feeling of nerve exhaustion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery bears the stamp of PUBLIC APPROVAL and has sold more largely in the past forty years than any other blood purifier and stomach tonic.

"Some time ago I got out of health—my stomach seemed to be the seat of the trouble," writes MR. EDNA WILLIAMS of Belleville, Kans. I commenced to doctor with all the doctors at home as well as with other specialists on stomach and digestive organs. None seemed to do my good—in fact, most of the medicines did me harm. Finally I wrote to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., who replied, stating that I had liver complaint with indigestion, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets.

"The Discovery" and "Pellets" have "put me on my feet again"—seemed to be just what I needed. I could not have recovered without them."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for liver ills.

Notes From Holyrood.

A large audience filled the Star Hall, Holyrood, on St. Patrick's Night, to greet the production of that popular Irish play "Con The Shaughraun." Rev. J. Nolan, P. P., Fortune Harbor, who had been sent here by His Lordship Bishop March, to preach the St. Patrick's Day sermon, was present and watched very closely and interestedly the whole performance from beginning to the close. The rev. gentleman, who is a skilled director of amateur theatricals, commented most favourably on the personation and deportment of the performers. The play was staged under the direction of Mr. Aaron Maher, Chairman of the Amusement Committee of the Star of the Sea Association, assisted by Mr. James O'Rourke, and was given without a hitch and that it pleased the audience was shown by the breathless silence and close attention during the acts and the applause given at their close. Messrs. A. Maher, as "Con"; J. Duggan, as "Mollin-eux"; M. Maloney, as "Robert"; Misses Maher, as "Claire"; A. Kirby, as "Moya"; A. O'Neill, as "Arte" and B. Maloney, as "Mrs. O'Kelly" had the heavier parts and acquitted themselves creditably. In fact Mr. and Miss Maher's rendition of "Con" and "Claire" would shame some professionals. T. Butler, as "Father Dolan," was the Soggarth Aroon, the ideal Irish priest; Leo Kirby, as "Kinchella," and Bernard Walsh, as "Duff," were favourites with the audience; Messrs. Barrett, Woods, Byrne, O'Rourke, Lewis and Walsh and Misses Crawley and P. O'Neill in minor parts, and the playing and singing between the acts by Misses A. Kirby, B. Maloney, and M. Crawley and the large and appreciative audience all naturally helped to make a success of St. Patrick's night celebration and "Con the Shaughraun" the talk of the town. The play will be repeated Easter Monday night when it is expected another large audience will greet its presentation.

Mrs. Margaret Holden died suddenly here at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Catherine Veitch, on Saturday morning last. The venerable old lady had reached the advanced age of 93 years, was an old Irish lady of respectable lineage but had spent the greater part of her life in prominence at Harbour Main where her late husband, William Holden, once carried on a large and flourishing trading business and raised the large family of twenty-three children, all save three have pre-deceased her. The late Mrs. Holden was a pious, charitable and hospitable lady, and despite her advanced age was up to two years ago a frequent church-goer. Her funeral which was largely attended took place on Monday from her late residence to the Church of the Holy Cross where High Mass and Office was chanted for the repose of her soul by the Rt. Rev. Mons. Veitch, as Celebrant, Rev. R. M. Shean, Deacon and Rev. J. Nolan, Sub-Deacon. The church ceremonies being ended the funeral continued thence to Avondale cemetery where the final benediction was given at the graveside by Monsignor Veitch and the mortal remains of the venerable old lady were placed beside those of her late husband. Requisite in pace.

Capt. John Lewis the popular and successful banking master left Holyrood last week en route to Harbour Breton to commence this season's work. He will again command the schooner Metamora and a hardy crew of 20 men and it is safe to forecast that when the next fishing season's operations are closed Capt. John will be again in the front ranks of the successful fish killers of Newfoundland.

Good news was received last week from Rev. J. W. Donnelly, St. Gabriel's Seminary, New York. He conveys the pleasing intelligence to his friends that his convalescence has made such progress, that he feels as well as ever. Father Donnelly has played and singing between the acts by Misses A. Kirby, B. Maloney, and M. Crawley and the large and appreciative audience all naturally helped to make a success of St. Patrick's night celebration and "Con the Shaughraun" the talk of the town. The play will be repeated Easter Monday night when it is expected another large audience will greet its presentation.

had a long and hard fight with the dread disease consumption and it looks new that he is going to win out in the end. That this be so, is the sincere wish of his many friends in Newfoundland.

For the past month it is current rumour that the postmistress has resigned and that there are quite a number of applicants for the position. If the report is correct it will soon be in order for Messrs. Murphy and Woodford to advise the Government in the selection of a competent person from the large number of applicants who embarrass them.

The recent rainstorms have damaged the roads considerably around here, and as soon as the spring weather opens for good it is desirable that the district representatives authorize their being repaired.

Mrs. Margaret Walsh died here St. Patrick's Day. Deceased lady had been ailing for a long time but still had lived to the advanced age of 87 years. She leaves a family of four sons to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother. During her sickness she had been often visited by her nephew, Rev. W. P. Finn, P. P., Whitehouse, who came to officiate at her funeral ceremonies at Holyrood Church to-day. Requiem High Mass and the final benediction at the catafalque having been finished the funeral cortege reformed and continued to the south side cemetery where the remains of the late Mrs. Walsh were laid to rest in the family plot enclosed by a large gathering of friends who have our sympathy, and who offered up silent prayers for the eternal repose of her soul. Undertaker Dunphy had charge of both funerals.

The annual meeting of the Coal Co. of Holyrood took place at the residence of Capt. John Lewis. The report of the year's business was submitted and approved of. The members were hospitably entertained by the Capt. and his lady, and it was agreed to import a cargo of coal next September or October, as there was probably sufficient coal on hand to sell up to that time.

The Star of the Sea Association of Holyrood have decided to enlarge and extend their Hall the coming year. The Hall extension committee will report to the quarterly meeting in April, whose report and the report of the past year we shall feel grateful to the Evening Telegram to publish them.
