

Morris Must Go.

That is What the People Say

More Nuts for Patsy.

Morris is wearing old second-hand clothes again.

He is making fun of the poor people who are showing their contempt. It's no use to him they saw through him.

Morris would give $100 for an outfit to go to one of Reid's dinner parties. But a second-hand $7 suit is good enough to look for votes in. He'll turn it after the election.

Morris ate the seed potatoes instead of setting them. He'd eat a dogfish now to get a vote.

Patsy was burnt on the pond. He came to life again, as a sewer rat emerging from a drain.

He developed low instincts before he was said "P. P. Morris was reared on Poor House Scraps." After that he said: "If you give Morris a rag and a jar of Rum, he'd raise a god in St. John's."

Morris's month may have been built to swallow anything. But if he can swallow Patsy McGrath, "the lowest and basest in public life," then he is not wanted. Because if he gets the chance he'll swallow the country and its people or may help Canada to do it.

Judas got the thirteen pieces. Patsy turned the Judas for twenty-five pieces. Morris acted the Simon-pure and didn't take a salary; but he took ten thousand pieces on one job alone.

Morris knew what he was about when he said he would take no salary. He did it to mention it, if it was not to let the people think he would work for nothing. Why does he go about in old clothes? Morris got his bill, but he didn't charge it in as salary!

He says that are dark, and tricks that are vain.

The heathen Chinese is peculiar! and the sewer rat thrives in a filthy drain.

Like the lowest and basest reviler!

Mr. "East End" in the Advocate said: "Morris played the Judas on more than one occasion."

When Morris gave Reid's the contract to build Railways, he talked millions and was well dressed. But he said old clothes are best to get work with.

Look at me! says he, with a grin. I got the pants from Yankee Flynn. The cap once covered a load of sin.

I got that from Patsy the Ratter!

No oil yet has been found to drive any sewer-rats. But the votes of the people can turn out the men who harbour sewer-rats.

P. P. McGrath has never been known to wash his mouth clean once. Why should he? Rats never do!

A "Catholic Layman" in yesterday's Telegram gave McGrath a crushing reply to his Godless School. He says "one of the causes of Morris's defeat will be McGrath's brazen attempt to 'win' the Catholics on the school question." McGrath's brazen insolence is only equalled by his vitriolic depravity.

Morris is a Simon-Pure! Laugh at while you can! When he is taking his salary he is diving into the Fish Pond of Egypt whilst you are asleep.

E. P. Morris has been in every Government during the past twenty years. No matter who the Leader

Political Pointers.

The Liberals have grim work before them and they have set themselves to perform it.

The task after all will not be difficult. With the whole populace behind them, they can't lose.

That attack on Mr. Herder by McGrath, so disgusted even dyed in the Wool Tories, that they were ashamed yesterday to speak of it. This episode has lost more votes for Morris and won more for Bond than any one can imagine.

Bond's stock is ascending the whole time. Morris is rated very low.

St. John's East and West sold for Bond. Every other district in the Island the same.

What a clean wipe out 'twill be. Watch and see.

Your Duty.

Nothing to do with the Custom House, good friend. Its only reference just now is to yourself. Let us suppose that you are a man of family with sufficient of the world's goods to keep them in comfort. Very well.

You did not reach this satisfactory state of affairs without care and labour—few men do. Suppose you are awakened some night with shouts of alarm ringing in your ears. Too late then to talk of prudence; too late then to say: "If I had only, etc., etc."

That "if" means too much to many forgetful people. Is it not always the duty of a self-respecting citizen to protect his home and thus provide for those within it. Is it any more then his duty to those depending on him to protect them as far as possible? Can you call your property your own when it is not insured? The answer to this argument is to carry insurance with Percie Johnson's agency—the most popular office in Newfoundland and the least expensive.

Cape Shore Delighted

At Sir Robert's Announcement.

Editor The Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The people of this shore were delighted when the news reached us that Sir Robert Bond was again going to lead the Liberal Party. We have every confidence in him for we know him to be honourable and upright and has the interest of his native country at heart and had been in power the past four years our roads and bridges would not be impassable as they are to-day. Sir Robert's policy was to do the most good for the greater number, and Morris's policy is all for Reid's to hades with us fishermen. We know Reid gets fifteen or sixteen thousand dollars a mile for every mile of road he builds and we cannot get one dollar to repair our roads. We also know that what one mile of railroad cost would give us good roads from Branch to Placentia, then we could market our produce which is impossible now. We have plenty of good agricultural land but all we can do now is raise what we can consume ourselves, but had we good roads so that we could market our produce this shore would be one of the most prosperous places in Newfoundland. Morris has boasted of all he was going to do for Agriculture, and what did he do, he appointed Devereaux, one of our representatives, a Commissioner of Agriculture at a big salary and he was too busy drawing his salary monthly to think of our wants, but he will want our votes this Fall. (Doesn't he wish he may get them.) For his own sake we would advise him to stay away and keep Franky with him for we are not in the mood to be trifled with just now. We intend to vote solid for Sir Robert Bond and the united Liberal Party.

Yours truly, FISHERMAN.

Quick Work.

Sunday night at 11 o'clock, Mr. D. Baird's motor became ditched on the Thorburn Road. Messrs. Jenkins, Dooley, Weekham, Flynn and Vinnicombe volunteered to get it up after Mr. Baird had tried to fetch it with two horses. These young men rigged up a special purchase and had it out of the rut in less than ten minutes. Mr. Baird highly appreciated the act and heartily thanked them for their kindness. Nix and Jenkins et al are good men when they are called on in an emergency.

Eating With His Stomach

That's what the man tries to do who bolts his food without thoroughly chewing it.

This is particularly true when he uses soft, starchy foods, which seldom get the necessary digestion by the saliva, as nature intended, because most people swallow such foods as quickly as possible.

This leads to weakened digestive organs, fermentation, imperfect nutrition, and sometimes appendicitis.

Grape-Nuts

FOOD

must be chewed, and for this, as well as other reasons, this food has saved many from chronic intestinal troubles and all the misery that means.

If there's one thing about Grape-Nuts of greater interest than its scientific food qualities, it is its remarkable practical adaptability to all weakened conditions of the digestive organs and its power to build them up quickly.

Ex-Consul and His Wife Burnt to Death.

New York August 30.—Thousands of curios gathered in many lands, and stacked high in the apartments of Hippolyte Uriarte, for fifty years a Spanish consul, led a fire kindled in lighting a cigar early to-day, and blocked the way of the aged diplomatist and his wife to safety.

Uriarte was found dead, leaning across a window sill. His wife, Mary Louise, mistook a window leading to an air shaft for one opening onto a fire escape, and plunged four stories to her death.

Uriarte was 82 years old. For many years he was Spanish Consul-General in Canada.

During his travels for his Government he had accumulated souvenirs and mementos of every country in which he had lived. They crowded every nook and corner of his apartments, and in the smoke and confusion resulting from the fire, effectually cut him off from escape.

The fire was kindled, it is believed, when Uriarte lit a cigar, which he intended to smoke before going to bed. The aged couple had been up until a late hour celebrating the home coming of their son, Louis, an accountant in Cuba.

(Mrs. Uriarte was a daughter of J. C. Toussant, and sister-in-law of the late Mr. R. J. Parsons, barrister. Mr. Uriarte was Spanish Consul here for many years and left here some forty years ago.—Ed.)

St. Bride's Bridge.

Editor The Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The timber for the long wanted bridge was landed here today. The readers of the Telegram will remember how Capt. Bonia had to place a watchman on it some time ago to save life and property. We are going to have a new bridge at St. Bride's and a new Government one Fall. I am informed that Mr. Dan Young is going to superintend the work. Mr. Young and his man are very busy landing the timber. Of course Dan's man is what we call a wages man, and it comes in well for Dan. I know Mr. Devereaux will be delighted to hear it was Mr. Young and his man earned all the money on the bridge.

I remain yours sincerely, BULGER'S MAN.

Breaking the Banks.

Editor The Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—An item appeared in yesterday's issue of the Herald under the heading: "Breaking the Banks."

This is a matter of which I think the Banks should take cognizance, as the importance to depositors demands such. It is time they jumped on McGrath.
