it was conceded that the remaining period would find both teams ready to do or die. The Guards took the ball west but couldn't get by Power and Fox. Brien next had a chance of a nice drop but his effort was too feeble. Charl changed places with Rose. For the next few minutes it was not an Orange Crush but a regular Irish one, but their forwards couldn't break through. Power again spoiled Dicky's rush to the west. Another sortie of short passes by the Irish forwards evoked great admiration, but Charl and Thistle were rustling them.
