Try to Sell Water at $27,000 to Dry.

When the alleged owners of thirty-six barrels of what purported to be 108 proof whisky refused $35,000 for the lot, containing for $2,000 more, Federal Prohibition Agents Charles Guttman and Harry Drencher walked out of the Williams Storage Warehouse, 637 West 125th Street, recently and went to the office of United States Commissioner Hitchcock in the Federal Building, and procured a search warrant. They had been permitted to sample the whisky in course of the negotiations and were certain that it was pre-Volstead stuff. Returning to the warehouse yesterday morning with a search warrant, the agents seized the barrels, which had been swelled in number to thirty-eight. Closer inspection disclosed to the amazed agents that it would take all of the thirty-eight barrels to yield one gallon of whisky of the kind they sampled on Friday. This amount was contained in the false top built into one of the barrels from which the samples were drawn on Friday for the agents. The rest of the contents of this barrel and the others was water.

Disclaiming any part in the attempted swindle, the owners of the warehouse said the barrels had been offered for storage as containing pickles and they had no knowledge to the contrary until the second visit of the prohibition agents. Dave Williams, manager of the warehouse, is said to have told the agents that he rented the ground floor of the warehouse recently to two men calling themselves Lewis Brothers, and gave their address as 214 East Twenty-ninth Street. Although Williams promised co-operation in running down the men who stored the barrels, he was given a summons to appear this week before Commissioner Hitchcock and explain all about the renting of the space to "Lewis Brothers."

The agents said that in an office building in Times Square, where a great many bootleg transactions are reported to be taking place now, they were introduced Friday afternoon to a whisky salesman, whose first name they recalled was "John." The salesman in turn introduced them to a man who was known as William Daly. After negotiating with him and agreeing upon a price of $30.50 a gallon for whisky, the agents said they went with him to the warehouse, where they saw the "merchandise" and sampled it. They made a lump offer of $25,000 for the liquor, but were coolly informed that nothing less than $27,000 would move the stuff. The search warrant was then procured. Besides the barrels, the agents found a complete Government liquor testing instrument, together with a manual. The instrument had been used by Daly the day before in proving to the agents that the whisky was as represented—108 proof. It is understood that the testing instrument will now do legitimate service at prohibition headquarters. The agents are looking for Daly and the two "Lewis brothers."

Boll Weevil Does Immense Damage.

HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS LOST.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington estimates that boll weevil prevented the production in 1921 of cotton valued at $152,500,000. This is the greatest instance on record of destruction by boll weevil. —Reuter.

The boll weevil is a small, greenish-grey insect only about a quarter of an inch in length. From Mexico it made its first appearance in the cotton fields of Texas, United States, in 1893, and gradually moved northwards year by year until it extended its ravages throughout the cotton belt of the United with great losses to growers.

In 1918 in nine States it destroyed lint and seed worth $40,000,000. It infects the boll or unripe cotton pod, and it is the maggot, not the perfect insect, which does the damage.—Da Mail.

What to Your Best?

If one does his best every day, it is soon noticeable that what was best at one time is not now his best by any means. Practice in hard work never fails to enlarge the capacity for hard work. It is a natural law that to be strong one must not possess muscles but must use them constantly.

There is an immense "shake-up" and "shake-down" going on in commerce and industry all over the world. To-day the time of trial individual efficiency has arrived. The bricklayer who lays more bricks than the "average" bricklayer, the man who can raise his level a little higher every day is the man who will weather the storm.
