Sunday was the first anniversary of the opening of the new Centennial Methodist Church, and revening and evening. Rev. James Hannoa, D.D., of St. Thomas, delivered two interesting sermons. In the morning he took for his subject I. Corinction of the large congregation to an excellent large congregation to an excellent discourse on "Faith." Rev. Joseph Philp, the pastor of the church, had announced at a previous service that an attempt would be made to raise $2,000, which would be made to raise $2,000, which would be made to raise $2,000, which would be applied toward reducing the debt on the church, and nrged all the members to do their utmost in order to raise the desired sum. HIS LITTLE ONES.

The Care of the Poor and Needy Children.

Strong Plea by a London Philanthropist.

An esteemed woman correspondent writes

An esteemed woman correspondent writes the ADVERTISER as follows:
Very few, even of the inner circle of the more thoughtful, realize how many of "His little ones" are drifting daily, swiftly, but too surely to rain. For those of us who do know and have proved this fact and whose hearts are touchedjwith "Oh, the pity of it," surely it remains with us to awake to the importance of united action. The children themselves are unable to stem the tide of evil and sin around them. They are often the creatures of circumstance; their friends, and alaa, too often their parents, are either indifferent or unwilling to give even a helping hand to the little ones intrusted to their care, many of whom have not had in their care, many of whom have not had in their ing mand to the little ones intrusted to their care, many of whom have not had in their short lives one hour of the loving care we often see bestowed upon the pampered household pets of our richer neighbors. But we think we hear some one exclaim, "What an exaggerated picture," Go ask the many patient and loving workers among the poor and in the charge of except the many patient and loving worker among the poor, and in the slums of our great cities—ask the matrons, and superint tendents of our several homes and jail even here in London, ask some of the workers of the W. —Judg-Fizgerald is in London looking after his interests in that city. Yesterday all his furniture, etc., was sold by auction. The residence has been rented for a year, and as soon as everything is straightened his honor will return to Welland.—[Welland Tribune.

—Mr. George Clark, of 728 York street, went to Toronto about a week ago to erect a furnace in a large warehouse. He was in the best of health when he left the city, but a telegram has been received stating that he had been removed to a hospital, suffering from inflammation of the bowels.

—There is a depression in real estate at the present time in this city. Ald J. W. Jones thinks so. At his auction rooms on Saturday six properties were offered. Five Jones thinks so. At his auction rooms on Saturday six properties were oldered. Five of these were withdrawn, in some cases no bids being made, and the remaining one, a small cottage on Lyman street, was sold to Annie Staliward for $410.

—In the recent account of Lord Elgin's visit to London during the Tory riots, it was stated that the Governor stopped at "Nile's House," Dorchester, where he was dined prior to entering the city. This was not a hotel, as might be inferred, but the private residence of Mr. Niles, a loyal Liberal, and father of Mr. Vm. Niles, this city. It was from this house Lord Elgin was escorted to London by the stalwart yeamen of Mestminster, mounted.
