LARKS OF TECH. SCHOOL

An exhibition game in the Technical Senior Basketball League resulted in a win for the Woodchucks, piloted by Day, over Ramers' Larks.

The game produced encouraging material, considering the fact that the school has been hampered by imadequate floor space. Ramer and Smith were the go-getters for the Larks, while Hasket and Day starred for the Woodchucks.

Miss Kennington's father paid the great sacrifice.

John Nash presented the prizes donated by himself. These consist of a ring to each girl and a pin to each boy who secured 60 per cent or over on every subject at the final examination. The tokens bear the finitials, C. S. C., standing for Commercial School Comrade. Mr. Nash is an old student of the commercial denart.

Not only is the statement "MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE" true, but it is also true that the day will soon be here when CRIME, POVERTY, FAMINES, and PESTILENTIAL DISEASES now so prevalent throughout the earth WILL BE NO MORE.

Why the Creator has permitted the earth to be scourged by such a multitude of diverse evils for centuries, afflicting alike both the good and the bad. has long been a mystery. With the dawning of a new day a solution of this mystery has come, and it satisfies both the intellect and the heart. Hear it in this lecture: Why Does God Permit Evil?
