

When the service man (or woman) is placed in a position of responsibility, he is given a job, he is given a task, he is given a responsibility, and he is given a chance to do it. The object of the program is to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it. The object of the program is to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it.

The N.C.A.A. has a triple purpose in building this program and foremost, the object is to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it. The object of the program is to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it.

When a member of the air force is discharged, he or she is provided by the N.C.A.A. with a booklet of introduction to prospective employers. The booklet contains a list of names of employers, and a list of names of employers. The booklet contains a list of names of employers, and a list of names of employers.

The second purpose of this program is to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it. The object of the program is to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it.

The third purpose of this program is to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it. The object of the program is to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it.

Any available surplus of service man (or woman) is being studied by the N.C.A.A. with the object of giving them a chance to do it. The object of the program is to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it.

Job analyses have been made for all those occupations engaged in by approximately 50% of persons engaged in Canada.

Certain large industries have already made their own surveys as to the probable post-war requirements for employees in different occupations within their own particular industry. Again it is possible to provide a rough analysis. Some large employers who have had hundreds of employees in the armed forces have supplied the details of the kind of work they did and where they lived. To turn the N.C.A.A. will give these employers information as to the kind of service records and aptitudes, and the employer will then furnish a list of appropriate courses which the service man (or woman) will be able to take to fit him for better jobs.

This program is being organized in a way that it is possible to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it. The object of the program is to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it.

Personnel counselors are being trained to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it. The object of the program is to give the service man (or woman) a chance to do it.