Monday, the 2stn inst. will be first notice day for August deliveries, and it is believed enough cotton can be tendered on that month to cause depression of a temporary character at least. The action of the market recently has indicated pressure on the nearby positions. The revision to take place and effect during September should have the effect of increasing the relative value of the New york contract after that date. Meantime crop developments during the next thirty days will be of the utmost importance in showing the fruiting power of the plant and the pressure of the consecuence to the trade.

The market soon developed a better tone, however, with leading commission houses quietly absorbing offerings, which, with later reports of an unsatisfactory character from the northwest, started the early sellers covering and resulted in a steady advance, the market closing at about the high point. Kansas sent bullish advices regarding threshing returns. Late cables were stronger. The volume of business was larger, and the general undertone decidedly stronger, and we look for a further recovery.
